JUDGE LOCHRANE.

In our account of Peter Cooper's visit to this city, on yesterday, our reporter, in a spirit of humor, made certain allusions to gentlemen connected with the visit that should not have been made.

He alluded to Judge Lochrane as having carried Miss Cooper's dog, when, of course, no such thing occurred.

The article was written purely in fun, and it was not intended that it should be taken seriously. Judge Lochrane, at the especial request of Mayor Angier, left his business and went to ride with the distinguished guests, who had honored our city, and who deserved such recognition. It was an inconvenience that he incurred simply at the mayor's urgent request. Judge Lochrane is one of our most accomplished gentlemen, and one of the most distinguished of Georgia's sons. While he has a warm and liberal hospitality, no man that lives is freer from all suspicion of subservience to wealth or power than he. His courtesy is extended just as graciously and as freely to the humblest citizen as to the richest and most powerful. Our home people who know Judge Lochrane, will relish the humor of our reporter, but to prevent any misconception among outsiders as to the distinguished man who has worn and honored the ermine of our highest bench, and has always stood in the foremost ranks of our representative citizens, we make this editorial statement.

An Open Letter.

We have received the following which we print:

NIAGARA FALLS, May 12, 1878.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION—DEAR SIRS: Will you please hand this letter to W. G. Whidby, Esq., chairman of the committee on entertainment for the International Sunday-school convention, held last month at Atlanta.

As I am up here on the frontier looking after the Fenians' interest, and saw in the newspapers what Brother Whidby had done for the cause of human rights, (for a nigger has no rights that we are bound to respect,) Please give him this and oblige P. MCMILLIGAN.

Dear Mr. Whidby; SIR—Although I am a Catholic, I think you did right in setting back the Hayes Methodist Ohio state Sunday-school union for presuming to appoint a black man as one of the delegates to your convention. You say the time has not come and you could have added, nor never will come, now or hereafter. Do you suppose that you or I would want to meet a nigger in purgatory; no, not in heaven even, and if you are the chairman on entertainment there, (and I hope you will be) I'll bet they will not come, or the Ohio state Sunday-school union, that want to take niggers wherever they go. They would all be excluded.

If our Sunday-school Catholic had sent delegates to your convention the delegation would have been composed of such men as the late Hon. John Morrissey, whose likeness appears, I am sorry to see, in that abolition sheet, Harper's Weekly, along with the nigger, Arnett.

I should like to shake hands with you—a man of progressive ideas—and I hope it will be said to you, "well done good and faithful servant; for as much as ye have done it unto the least of these, my little ones, ye have done it unto me. May this be your Sunday-school lesson forever is the prayer of

P MCMILLIGAN.

The Conyers Cornet Band.

CONYERS, GA., May 24th, 1878

MESSRS. EDITORS: I notice in your issue of to-day, that your reporter in writing up the press excursion stated that the brass band was employed by Colonel Wrenn.

I beg leave to call your attention to the facts regarding the band that accompanied the press excursions should you again speak of the band through your columns.

The Conyers cornet band extended their services to the press association to furnish music on that occasion, which was accepted by Col. J. H. Estill, the president of the association, and our band furnished music on the entire trip. It seems that the members of the press do not understand how the band come to be with them. The band was not employed by any one, but furnished the music complimentary to the press. Respectfully,

A MEMBER OF CONYERS CORNET BAND

Marriage.

Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock Mr. W. A. Dent was married to Miss Kate Alexander, at the residence of Mr. A. B. Matthews, in West End.

The ceremony was performed in a very impressive manner by Bishop Pierce.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr Thomas Alexander, of our city. The groom is the son of Col. J. E Dent, of Newnan. He has been in business here for the past two years and has made many friends in Atlanta who congratulate him on his new happiness. The ceremony was witnessed by the relatives of the parties and a few friends. The bridal pair left by the Air Line route for the north where they will spend several weeks. They will make Atlanta their future home.

Visiting the Schools.

On Wednesday, Hon. O P. Fitzgerald, formerly superintendent of public instruction of California, Hon H A M Henderson, state superintendent of Kentucky, Mr Allen of Arkansas, and Rev Dr Philpot, of Texas, accompanied Professor Mallon to the ward schools and the high school. At the latter place, Dr Fitzgerald made a few facetious and fascinating remarks, and Dr Henderson addressed the young ladies in most felicitous terms, exhibiting great readiness of speech. The gentlemen were delighted with our schools, and complimented Professor Mallon on his skill of superintendency, and the material given to his hand to mould into future honor and usefulness.

Atlanta Hospitality

MESSRS. EDITORS: In my statements in the Nashville Daily American of the uncomfortable room in which the conference sessions are held, I did not design to reflect upon the home and social hospitality of Atlanta; nor could any one who saw it give it such construction. I regret that it has been so reported and repeated by those who did not see it. The thought could not have occurred to me.

I am only glad that the misrepresentation gives me the opportunity of saying, that having attended the general conference at Memphis and Louisville, I am prepared to say that the hospitality of Atlanta has never been surpassed.

The Coming Concert.

To be given at Concordia Hall next week will be truly artistic and enjoyable. The fact that Madame W rner, with the assistance of Mrs. Madden, will select the numbers of the programme is sufficient proof that these numbers will all be gems. Among the musicians we notice F. The amendment was put to the conference and was lost.

The motion of Dr Key was then put and carried.

THE SPECIAL ORDER of the day was announced arrived, and Bishop Paine took the chair.

The order was the reception of the fraternal delegates of the Methodist Episcopal church, who had come to bear the fraternal greetings of that great church to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south.

The church was so full by this time that it was almost impossible to obtain admission.

Bishop Paine announced that the order of the day also included a communication from the Wesleyan Methodist church of England conveying assurances of fraternity.

THE INTRODUCTION

Gov Colquitt then, escorted the fraternal delegates, Rev C D Foss, D D, and Hon William Cumback, who as clerical and lay delegate respectively come from the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Bishop Paine cordially received the delegates, and then introduced them to his colleagues, after which he introduced them to the conference.

The conference rose to receive them.

The credentials of Dr. Foss and Mr. Cumback from the authorities of the Methodist Episcopal church were read by Dr. Summers, and Bishop Paine ordered them recorded on the minutes of the general conference.

The scene at this time was very impressive. All the venerable bishops were on the stage and in their midst sat Dr. Lovick Pierce, "one of the fathers." The fraternal delegates and Rev. A. L. Hunt, D.D, of the American Bible society, Gov. Colquitt, President E. E. Wiley, of Emory and Henry college, the venerable Dr. Sargeant, of Baltimore, Dr. T. O. Summers, D D, secretary, and President A. G. Haygood, of Emory college, assistant secretary, completed the fine array.

THE WESLEYAN METHODISTS.

Dr Lovick Pierce announced that he had a communication from the Wesleyan Methodist conference held at Bristol, England, which conveyed messages of sympathy in Christ. It was received and read to the conference by Dr Summers

After the document was read, Rev A M Shipp, DD of the South Carolina conference offered a resolution that a committee of five on fraternal correspondence be appointed by the chair to respond to the communication and to all similar communications. The resolution was unanimously. Adopted.

Bishop Paine said—I know that it is the pleasure of the conference to hear from the delegates who have just been introduced to you. Dr Foss, will you say something to your brethren?

Rev C D Foss, D D, rose in response, and after being received with applause, addressed the conference as follows:

ADDRESS OF DR. FOSS.

Mr. President, and Fathers and Brethren, honored and beloved in the Lord: It gives me great joy to be present with you and to have the unexpected delight in receiving with you this greeting from the mother of us all. It comes to me, and I have no doubt to you, like a mother's kiss of peace to her reconciled children. [Applause.]

If I felt myself equal to the duty of this hour I should esteem it the most joyful hour of my life; but he would indeed be a bold man who should suppose himself able to give fit expression to the greetings about to be exchanged between the two largest branches of Methodism in the world; long and sadly estranged from each other; during the recent years earnestly, honorably, frankly trying to remove the causes of this estrangement, or to bury them a thousand fathoms deep in the whelming tide of Christian love; and now for the first, able to strike glad hands over "formal fraternity" as an accomplished fact. Two and a quarter millions of Episcopal Methodists feel the joyful thrill of this day's greetings; so many in God's militant host, led to His feet by Wesley and Asbury and their successors, and let us not doubt that the countless myriads of God's triumphant host, also share in the solemn joy of this great hour; for

> "One family we dwell in Him;
> One church, above, beneath;
> Though now divided by the stream,
> The narrow stream of death."

Would that he to whom we trace whatever is distinctive in our ecclesiastical order might break the long silence which has elapsed since his never-to-be-forgotten parting blessing: "The best of all is, God is with us," and speak to us from his high seat in glory words of congratulation and counsel to-day. [Applause.] I repress this vain wish and offer a more practicable one. Oh, that his Lord and ours, who left the world with His hands extended over His chosen to bless them, saying just as He ascended, 'Lo! I am with you always, even unto the end of the world," may breathe into every heart His spirit of ineffable love, and send us forth from this festal day as never before to cordial co operation in the sublime endeavor which has been our common watch-word from the beginning, "to spread scriptural holiness over these lands." [Applause.]

Mr President, what is this precious heritage of Methodism, in which millions of men have come to rejoice? What is it without, and what within? What has it done to challenge the attention and respect of the Christian world, and what is the sources of its power? It has been termed as "Christianity in earnest." May it evermore and increasingly deserve that definition. (Amens.) Its best historian speaks of it on his title page as "the religious movement of the 18th century, called Methodism." A "movement" certainly it was at the beginning, both in England and in America. It made a commotion wherever it went. The customary greeting which met its itinerants everywhere was, "these that have turned the world upside down are come hither also" And they justified the expectation thus created. They had the faith of the rough Yorkshire preacher on this text, who announced as the points of his sermon: "1. The world is wrong side up. 2. It must be turned up side down. 3. We are the chaps to do it." (Laughter and applause.)

It was also a "religious" movement. Men might call it fanatical, as many did, but all were compelled to admit that it was pre-eminently religious. It was incontestibly that and nothing else; and, compared with all other movements in the century, it was "the religious movement of the 18th century."

But it has long since outgrown its swaddling clothes. During the first three-quarters of the 19th century the robust infant has become a stalwart youth. The statistics of Methodism have long since arrested the eye not only of the ecclesiastical historian, but also of the philanthropist and the statesman. Its pre-eminence among the religious forces at work on this continent is frankly admitted; being exhibited by collections of returns which, for their accuracy, have received from the most competent source the highest praise.

So much for American Methodism. But Methodism is not confined to America. Two of its bishops, one of yours and one of ours, have recently given visible demonstration of its old motto: "The world is my parish," by actually going round the world in the discharge of the duties of their office. [Applause] I know not how it may be here with you, but in the north we are sometimes taunted with "the decline of Methodism." At the dedication of one of our largest churches in Brooklyn, an eloquent Presbyterian minister, who was invited to make one of the addresses, referred to this subject, not, however, in the spirit of criticism. He said that for many years, in order to keep himself abreast with the religious knowledge of the time, he had been a regular reader of some one religous weekly of each of the great denominations, and that in all them years no single line had given him such pain as one he saw a few weeks before at the head of an article in the Christian Advocate published in New York. It was this: "The decline of Methodism." It reminded him of a carpenter who, while working in his shop, could watch his son playing around his door-yard, and who feared that the little fellow would sometime fall into the well. Suddenly missing him one day, he rushed to the curb, and seeing something in the water, he shouted, "My boy, are you dead?" "Yes, father." What a relief to get it from his own lips. [Applause.] The speaker added: "We outside have heard nothing of the decline of Methodism except from Methodism itself." Sitting behind him in the pulpit was Bishop Janes, that singularly devoted man, for whose entrance on a grand career of apostolic labors in the bishopric we were indebted to southern votes. We gratefully acknowledge this debt. He was wont to say that after his abundant opportunity for knowing whereof he affirms he could confidently assert that the church was never more pure, and never so intelligent and powerful for her work as now. [Applause]

We may and must see and lament whatever elements of weakness render Methodism, in point of fact at all inferior to its grand ideal as a world-embracing system of evangelical propagandism; but let us not forget to thank God that His blessing has made it the largest and most effective branch of His church on the continent, and has caused its distinctive ideas to overflow its ecclesiastical limits and leaven every other branch of the church.' [Applause.]

The Rev. Dr. Howard Crosby, who brought to our general conference the fraternal greetings of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in 1872, said:

"I rejoice to believe that when God sent the Methodist Episcopal church into America that church was called and elected to conquer this country, in order to put forward activity into the Presbyterian church;and it has made its calling and election sure. [Applause.] And I believe further, brethren, that you have in many details of Christian activity, taught us very many lessons which, though we may have been slow to receive, we have been sure to accept in the end."

It requires an effort of the imagination to realize the immense responsibility devolved on us by what God has accomplished through our fathers. Why does this august body, gathered from many states, pause in the midst of its important business to listen to the fraternal delegation? Not for what we are, nor for what we can say, but because we stand in front of 1,600,000 warm Methodist hearts, and give you their greeting in the Lord. [Applause.] We represent a body of Christians closely akin to you, having $70,000 000 invested in church property, having the immense responsibility of training amillion and a half of Sunday school scholars taught in 20,000 schools and by 200 000 teachers.

It would not become us to make any particular statement of your own statistics, but the world knows that your membership is fast approaching a full million, and that your pastors are responsible for the religious instruction of several millions of the people.

Dr Pun hur says that when in 1759, Richard Boardman and Joseph Pilmon were sent out to America, the first missionaries collection was taken in the British Wesleyan conference, and $200 was put into their hands. On their way a farewell meeting was held at York, and a collection of $2 50 was taken up. [Laughter] Tradition says a special prayer-meeting was called for at 5 o'clock the next morning, "to return God thanks for such an unexampled liberality." [Great laughter.] That was 109 years ago, and now there are 22,718 itinerant ministers, connected with the various branches of Methodism in this country, and 3,293 469 members. "What hath God wrought?" Oh, for floods, floods, floods, upon the dry ground. May God make us a thousand times so many more as we now are, and bless us as He has promised. [Amens.]

Thus have I hinted at the special reasons we have as Methodists for striking glad hands in fraternal greetings. If we were less nearly akin we should still be drawn together in Christian charity by the common bond which touches every member of the body of Christ.

Every Christian in the world is tugging at the heart-strings of every other Christian, whether he knows it or not.

If we have Christ's image, we must love that image everywhere. Wesley is drawn to Fenelon and Thomas-a-Kempis. The highest and thickest walls cannot keep out love any more than they can bar out gravitation. Let the relationship be a little closer, like that between the various evangelical churches in this land, and you witness such scenes as adorned this goodly city a few weeks ago when Christians from all parts of the United States and Canada, met in the International Sunday School convention and presided over by the honored and excellent Methodist governor of this eminently Methodist state of Georgia. [Applause.] never thought of each other as Presbyterians, or Methodists, or Baptists, but as one in Christ Jesus—fellow-citizens with the saints and of the household of God." [Applause.]

Let the kinship be still closer; let millions of Christians have the same type of belief, polity, experience; let them rejoice in a common history and that unique, heroic, sublime; and yet let it occur that a sharp wedge of separation rends them asunder, and that alienation and estrangement succeed: if the spirit of Christ abide in both parts of the dismembered body there must be regret, sorrow, longing, yearning and at last an all-conquering and resistless tide of Christian love. Four the closeness of the kinship and the felt necessity of a real reconciliation may require a degree of hesitation and time for the full consideration of all difficulties in order that they may be put aside forever. [Applause.]

I confess to a sincere respect for the reserve with which you met our early advances. When in 1869 our bishops proposed steps looking toward organic union yours replied thus:

"Permit us to say in regard to 'reunion' that in our opinion there is another subject to be considered before that can be entertained, and necessarily in order to it—we mean the establishment of fraternal feelings and relations between the two churches. They must be one in spirit before they can be one in organization Concord must be achieved before any real union. Heart divisions must be cured before corporate divisions can be healed."

The next year Bishop Janes and Dr (now Bishop) Harris appeared by appointment before your general conference, and were very kindly received. After considering their communication, you adopted resolutions, the first of which declared, "We earnestly desire to cultivate true Christian fellowship with every other branch of the Christian church, and especially with our brethren of the several branches of Methodism in this country and Europe," and the last, "We express our sincere desire that the day may soon come when proper Christian sentiments and fraternal relations between the two great branches of northern and southern Methodism shall be permanently established."

Four years ago you thrilled our whole church with delight by your genuinely cordial reception of our fraternal delegation. But then justly recognizing the difficulties in the way of complete and lasting fraternity, you appointed a commission to meet a like one from us to remove those difficulties, and a fraternal delegation to inform us of this action, and to bring us your Christian salutations. Only one man was thought of to be first named as that delegation, the venerable and honored patriarch of this conference. [Applause.]

When the time came, to our deep regret, he was detained by illness, but he sent us his address, and among his wise and loving words we found the following: "We do not believe that these difficulties ought ever to be discussed in either general conference at large. They are delicate, sensitive things, never to be settled by chafing speeches, but, as we believe, can be speedily prayed and talked to death by a joint board of discrete brethren, intent upon Christian peace." (Applause)

Such a "joint board" was appointed, the terms of their appointment being, in your words, which our general conference also adopted, "in order to remove all obstacles to formal fraternity between the two churches, and to adjust all existing difficulties." Could they do this work? Or would their conference only reveal insuperable obstacles to fraternity? How could Gen. Vance and Gen. Fisk agree? How could Dr. Myers and Dr. Fuller sign the same report, for had not both written books on the subject? [Laughter.] They reached Cape May. Before they met there was a cannonade of frank and loving letters. At their first meeting they adopted this resolution:

"In view of the greatness of the responsibility imposed upon us, and in view of our utter dependence upon Divine guidance in a matter of so much importance, a half hour shall be spent in earnest prayer at the commencement of each daily session of the commission."

That is hopeful, for God is "a very present help in trouble." The impossible became actual. Our commissioners declared this great church "an evangelical church reared on scriptural foundations" and "a legitimate branch of Episcopal Methodism in the United States" Both commissions unanimously agreed to the declaration and basis of fraternity" founded on this statement. Five hands seized five other hands; ten hearts melted and flowed together; ten voices sung:

> "Blest be the tie that binds
> Our hearts in Christian love,
> The fellowship of kindred minds
> Is like to that above;"

while angels bent to listen, and the Divine Redeemer looked down with a benignant smile on that scene so germane to the very genius of the gospel he had died to found. [Great applause.] When the action of the joint commission reached me I was on a long and wearisome journey. I picked up a secular paper and found the report complete. I devoured it with tears of gratitude, and at the close I said aloud to myself, "It is an inspiration of the Holy Ghost" To this day, sir, I have not severed from that conviction.

Some minor points of difficulty may yet remain, but the Malakoff has fallen We can "love as brethren," "with pure hearts fervently." In that spirit we can confer. Let there be no strife between us anywhere, and no emulation save the holy emulation to help each other in our common work for our one Lord.

But the apostles themselves did not understand this command of Jesus. They lingered in Jerusalem until persecution scattered them. Years after, Peter was still so bound by Jewish bigotry that he sued a miracle and an angel's visit to loose his bonds, and then, as though he had found a new revelation in the house of Cornelius, he said: "I perceive God is no respecter of persons." Within a century, within the life time of our honored father here (Dr. Lovick Pierce) in a Baptist ministers' convention, in which the great Dr. Ryland presided, the discussion flagged a little, and the young men were invited to propose subjects for discussion. William Carey said: "Mr. Chairman I propose this question, 'The duty of the Christian church to evangelize the heathen world.'" Dr. Ryland said, "Sit down, young man, sit down; when God gets ready to convert the heathen, he will do it without your help or mine." And that within the past century. God hid the truth on this subject in the hearts of Dr Coke and John Wesley, Judson, Carey and others. We see the fruits.

I will allude to one more doctrine—the witness of the spirit. God has given Methodism the honor of making millions of men understand it. This was almost a dead letter in God's holy book when John Wesley arose.

Mr John Wesley, in that Moravian meeting, and while reading Luther's translation he felt his heart strangely warm. In that hour Methodism was born. [Applause.] That strange warmth of John Wesley we have here to-day. Yet the teaching lay plainly on the very surface of the Bible. Enoch had this testimony, that he pleased God." David had his feet taken "out of a horrible pit out of the mirey clay," and a new song put into his mouth. Paul and Peter and John told the same blessed story. But I doubt if a thousand men in all England could there have said that they knew their sins were forgiven one hundred and fifty years ago.

Let us professionally send up from all our borders the united prayer which inspiration has prepared for us, "may the Lord of peace himself give us peace always by all means." Oh, that that "perfect love" to God and man, which it was the chief glory of Wesley and of Methodism so to emphasize as to enable the world to understand it better than ever before, may have abiding exemplification in the relations existing between the two great branches of Episcopal Methodism. [Applause] As for organic union, I, for one, sir, am not auxious about that.

Mr President, it has cost me an effort to delay so long as this to refer to the sore bereavements of your Zion and ours. I could hardly refrain at the beginning, but I could not trust myself then to pronounce two names which have ceased to be written in the lists of your effective ministers on earth, and have been transferred as worthy to be called on another roll for grander work in God's upper kingdom.

Who of the two thousands who heard, or of the hundreds of thousands who read, the clear, candid, masterful, eloquent plea for fraternity which fell upon our ears in Baltimore two years ago, will ever forget the silver-tongued Duncan? But alas, too soon, that tongue is silent.

And then we cannot forget the clear-headed, discreet, loving Myers, first named by you as one of your most trusted representatives, and appointed to a most delicate and difficult duty. He hoped after finishing the grandest work of his life, to go northward and spend a few weeks in Christian fellowship with new friends who would have accounted it a great pleasure to extend their hands to him in warmest welcome.

Just then there fell on his ear the call of duty—the highest call to a true pastor—for in his beloved city of Savannah the yellow fever had began its ravages. I must tell you the story as it stands on the last page of this pamphlet which is our permanent record of the steps toward that complete fraternity in which these two "reconciled churches" rejoice to-day. Our commissioners says this of him: "Fraternity was with him a passion."

We think we cannot be mistaken and that we do no injustice to any member of either commission when we declare that Dr. Myers, more than to any other one of our number, is due the unanimity of our conclusions. We know that he regarded his appointment the greatest honor, and his share in our success the greatest achievement, of his life.

When the tidings of plague and death reached him he calmly said, "I must go home to my flock," and set off without the delay of a day. When his brethren of the commission asked him, "Will you not come back north during the autumn and let our brethren see you?" he said, "God only knows what I am going to, whether life or death. If I live you will see me again, but if not we shall meet above. Good-bye."

After a few days' labor in that region of death, he fell—as may you and I fall—at his post. Let me refer to one other name most cherished among us. No man was more intent on fraternity than Bishop Janes. None had a clearer head or a warmer heart. He, like the brethren I have just named, fell a plumed warrior on the field of battle with the ensigns of victory all around him. Amid great anguish of body, which rarely softened into moderation, when asked about his outlook for the future world, he answered with his accustomed reserve, which gave his words a wondrous depth of meaning, "I am not disappointed!" Amens went up to his rest.

Now, brethren, it may seem almost strange that after referring to our precious departed, I should mention any living man; but it is not strange, and needs no explanation to you. I must tell you in just one word what a thrill of joy fills my heart because of the survival and presence of the grand old patriarch of this general conference. He belongs to us as well as to you. [Applause.] I would not, sir, for a thousand miles of travel, have missed the opportunity I enjoyed yesterday of hearing from this great and good man his plea for the precious doctrine of perfect love—a plea conceived on the instant, with a force of logic, of eloquence and of imagination, and uttered with a vigor of voice and manner, better befitting three score than nearly five score years—a plea (proved masterful by its effect upon your vote) for the restoration of your book of discipline of the form of words which, more than any other, proclaims our sense of the value of one of the brightest jewels in the casket of Methodism, "Do you expect to be made perfect in love in this life?" [Applause.]

My earnest prayer is that God will preserve the life of this honored representative of American Methodism until in still extremer age, when no longer able to show up in your church councils and speak words of wisdom, he may at least linger like St. John at Ephesus, and stand up in the assemblies of the saints, and stretching out his thin hands over the congregation, say, "Little children, love one another." [Great applause.]

My dear and honored father (to Dr Lovick Pierce) I bring you the special greetings I earnestly pray that God may give you a serene and brilliant sunset, and an abundant entrance into supernal glory. [Great applause and long continued.]

At the conclusion of these eloquent and beautiful remarks of Dr. Foss there was continued applause and demonstration of approval.

Bishop Paine said: "I cannot find it in my heart to repress this demonstration."

The speech created a very profound impression, and at its conclusion, as well as frequently during its delivery many of the audience were in tears. Dr. Foss is an orator who throws deep feeling into what he says, and his utterance is eloquent in a remarkable degree

Bishop Paine said the conference would have the pleasure of hearing also from the Hon. William Cumback, lay fraternal delegate from the Methodist Episcopal church.

Mr. Cumback was received with applause. He delivered the following address which was frequently interrupted with applause, and was throughout most cordially received.

SPEECH OF HON. WILLIAM CUMBACK.

Mr President and Brethren of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South—At the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church held two years ago at Baltimore, of which conference my colleague and myself had the honor to be members, it was the great pleasure of that body to welcome Rev Dr James A Duncan and L C Garland, LL D, as fraternal delegates from the Methodist Episcopal church, south.

Not only were we made happy by their manly and eloquent words conveying to us your fraternal regards, but we were filled with a still deeper joy by the love letter sent us by the venerable Dr Pierce, whose afflictions prevented him coming to us in person, with his colleagues. May we be permitted to join with you in gratitude and thankfulness that God in His goodness has spared his useful and holy life to still stand as a living monument of that past, when we were one church organization, and to plead with an eloquence akin to inspiration for Christian unity, peace and love in the whole Methodist family. Could you all have been present and have seen for yourselves the warm and earnest greeting given those honored brethren, and heard the hearty responses of the bishops, ministers and laymen of that large body of the representatives of our church; the eloquent words of my colleague or no poor words of mine, were needed to convince you that with the Methodist Episcopal church, that we have the honor to represent, fraternity is a living reality.

We have come to say so to you

We deem ourselves fortunate and honored that the proper authority selected us at this time to come, and, as well as we may respond to the loving message you sent us at Baltimore.

It is indeed a matter of congratulation and joy that in the Methodist church in this country there exists to-day a better understanding than at any period since the separation

The red hot coals of difference that had been fanned into a flame by the blasts of war, are dying out, so there is nothing left now but the ashes of former conflicts We cannot afford to quarrel over that. There is not enough in it to hinder complete fraternity.

We come, then, tendering to you the affection and good will of the Methodist Episcopal church, and rejoice in the hope that you will not allow us to do more than you in binding the Methodist family in the bands of a sincere and earnest Christian fraternity.

We are here to-day to give our hearty endorsement of the church we represent to the eloquent words of one of your fraternal messengers at Baltimore. He said to us:

"But what is fraternity? Is it only a quadrennial ceremony, a sort of ecclesiastical court formality, a specious parade of public addresses? Is it a mere form? Yet I humbly conceive that Christian fraternity is something more than such solemn mockery—something deeper, more vital and more sacred. It is a great Christian movement, giving concurrent expression to the great brotherly kindness of more than a million of hearts. It is a sublime Christian alliance, in which charity becomes supreme over all disputations, and reaffirms its meaning, its power and its consequences."

These grand and sublime words of the now departed Dr Duncan sent a thrill of joy to the vast assembly who had the privilege of listening to him.

We accept his definition, and in a like spirit come to you, bringing with us the hearty amens of more than a million and a half of Methodists.

And why should it not be so?

If our religion is not broad enough to take in the whole Methodist family, if it is too weak to conquer hate and overcome revenge, if our Christian charity is too narrow to extend beyond state lines and is crampled in sectional boundaries, then had all better look into the genuineness of our conversion.

The politicians for personal aggrandizement, of party triumph, may attempt to renew past differences and fan the dying embers, of past conflicts, but the Christian man can take no part on such a work.

The very essence of the Christian religion is love, and her voice is ever for peace.

It seems to me, therefore, that at this time there is a large responsibility resting on the Methodists of this nation. We are the largest denomination. We should take the lead on all good works.

What better work can we do than by example, as well as principle, to bring these many million American citizens to a proper understanding with, and right appreciation of each other.

Such a work not only subserves the great interests of religion, but it kindles anew the patriotic fires that lighted the way of a common ancestry from the thraldom of oppression to the enjoyment of liberty.

Scepticism may scoff, and infidelity may sneer, but the truth still stands that there can be no civilization worthy the name that is not the outgrowth of christianity.

We who profess to love the gospel must so have it in our hearts, that we will show in all our intercourse with each other that it is our guide—our rule of faith and practice.

I am fully convinced that if our free institutions are maintained; if our tolerant form of government remains in perpetuity, it will not be because of our armies, our navies, our increasing population, our many states, reaching from ocean to ocean and covering this mighty continent, but rather because in all this vast population and in every part of all these states there may be found so many Christian men and women teaching by precept and example the pure and elevating doctrines of the Christian system.

From the family altars is to go out a silent influence strong enough to still the ragings of revolution, to extinguish the eruptions of anarchy, to inspire a deep and profound reverence for law and order, to so clear the vision of mankind that prejudice will not be mistaken for conscience, or policy for principle.

As Methodists we must measure to the demands upon us.

On this question of fraternity we are rapidly coming up.

Indeed, we are recognized as being already in the advance.

At our last general conference we had as a fraternal messenger from the Presbyterian church that distinguished divine, the Rev. Dr. Patton, of Chicago.

He was present when your delegates were introduced and heard their kind words to us.

At the session following he was presented and delivered his message.

He alluded to the eloquent words of your fraternal delegates, and with a joyful countenance and a hearty emphasis he said to us, "I congratulate you on this happy consummation" But with a sorrow that he could not conceal, he added:

"My only regret is that your church in this respect is so far in advance of ours

"The Presbyterian church north and south seems like a sea whose waves roll apart because a ledge of rock lifts its persistent head above the waves.

"We have been trying to remove the obstruction—to blast the rock Committees have sat and editors have written, and private correspondence has been undertaken with results that fall short of complete success."

"But what is not done by one agency will be done by another; for there is a tide of Christian brotherhood rising fast, both north and south, which, when it shall have reached its full, will hide deep and out of sight the rocks of bitter memory.

"The tides of human feeling, like the ocean, come not at human bidding, but are under divine control"

"And we are thankful for the fact that this tide which is setting fast, though it rises too slow for those who are impatient of delay, rises at the same time too surely to make it safe for those who stand in the way of its advance."

If we are worthy the compliment paid us by Dr Patton; if the tide of fraternal feeling in the Methodist church has risen higher than that of any other sister church; if we do love each other more and seem more willing to forget, let us then pray God that he may so honor us with a rapid growth in grace in this direction that us Methodist may be the first to raise the shout that the work of conciliation is complete—that love reigns and rules in American Methodism

Not many months ago the president of these United States and his cabinet came to this goodly city of Atlanta to shake hands with your distinguished governor and the good people of this state of Georgia

The whole nation read with interest and gratitude the speeches made by the president and his cabinet and the responses made by your governor and the other distinguished statesmen of Georgia. The telegraph sowed the good seed all over the continent with the quickness of lightning. The good American people caught the spirit that prompted the kind words then uttered by all the speakers, and a strange sweet peace seemed to settle down on the hearts of all good citizens accompanied with a good hope and a better confidence for the future.

After all they but represent what politics may do in the work of conciliation. They pointed to the country's banner as the source of their inspiration.

We are all here to-day to show what religion may do to bring the hearts of a people of a common country in closer sympathy, holding higher than any other banner, the banner of the cross

The good seed sowed by them all over this land, some fell among the thorns and briars of deep rooted prejudices and were choked to death; some fell on the stony ground of mere policy, and will be scorched and blasted in the heat of the next political campaign; some fell on the hard wayside of American politics to be devoured if not by the devil by his familiar, the American demagogue.

The good seed sowed by your representatives at Baltimore two years ago, and I trust that which we have come to sow here has, and will, fall on good ground and bring forth abundantly and often, while, and that at no distant day, we will all shout and sing together at a glorious harvest home

Let us then hold higher and still higher the banner of the cross, as the truest and best ensign of the grand and rapidly increasing host that are demanding peace and good will, and as men take cognizance of our fraternal spirit and worthy kindness will, whether sceptic or believer, be compelled to say as did Constantine the Great, "By this sign we conquer."

Let us not halt and doubt. Let us not wait until complete fraternity will come, as come it will, from other influences Let the Methodists of this country, under the blessing of God, overcome any difficulties in the way and usher to the happy day of complete harmony.

They can do it if they will. The Methodist preacher reaches every community in the land. He is everywhere. He does more to mould that potent influence—public opionion—than anybody else

We can do more then, from the regular organization of our church, than any other religious body, if we will be but true to God, true to our country and true to the demands of our advancing civilization.

We are here to say, in behalf of the Methodist Episcopal church, that she heartily rejoices in your prosperity, and we are confident you rejoice at ours.

Let us know each other better and we will love each other more. We then, in behalf of the Methodist Episcopal church, earnestly invite you to send us your fraternal messengers when we meet in general conference two years hence, in Cincinnati. Let these words of love continue to be spoken and heard. Let this honest courtship go on and after a while it may be said of us, "Whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder."

At the conclusion of Mr. Cumback's speech, Bishop Paine said:

There is an earnest desire that our venerable and beloved Dr Pierce shall make some remarks—as many as he pleases—on this occasion. [Applause.]

Dr. Lovick Pierce arose amid applause, which sank into perfect silence as he advanced to the platform. He said.

Beloved brethren, I rise to return my thanks for your kind expressions in regard to myself, and I request you to return to my brethren in the north this communication: When they can outlove me, I want them to send me word. [Great applause.]

I could not now say anything beyond what respect required. I do not intend to interfere with the rich feast—the Christian entertainment with which we have been fed to-day

When notified of my appointment as chairman of our fraternal delegation, I resolved to go at any sacrifice save my life, but my Heavenly Father said to me in silent words: "You can do better at home than if at the conference." I became quiet as a lamb.

I suppose I am the first man ninety-four years old that ever came to a general assemby as an active delegate. It is a wonder that God has allowed me to overlive in days so many men greater than myself. I am glad that fraternity has come to pass in all its beauty and in all its perfection and in all of its sacredness. (Applause.)

At the conclusion of this touching speech Bishop Paine made a few remarks.

THE CLOSE.

After Bishop Paine had concluded his remarks, the conference spontaneously sang the doxology and the impressive proceedings were at an end.

A Convent Aflame.

MEMPHIS, May 16—This morning St. Agnes's academy was burned, with the valuable library and all the clothing of the pupils, and a large portion of the furniture. How the fire originated is not known, as the sisters of St. Dominic, who owned the academy, were at prayers in the chapel when the alarm was given, and rushing out found the upper portion of the building in flames. Their efforts were then directed to the saving of the pupils, who were very much alarmed and excited, but the coolness of the sisters prevented a panic. The roof fell in, and Chief McFadden and two firemen were caught in the hall and severely but not dangerously burned. Insured in the local companies. Insurance on the building $20,000; on the furniture, etc., $5,000

Mr. Stephens Tries to Speak, but Cannot be Heard—Another Adjournment.

THE SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Mr. Maxey, of Texas, from the committee on postoffice and postroads, reported, without amendment, senate bill to provide for the establishment of a steamship mail service between the United States and Brazil, being the bill introduced by Mr. Eustis yesterday, providing for semi-monthly service between the two countries, one line of steamers to leave New Orleans and the other to leave New York. Placed on the calendar. He gave notice that he would ask the senate to consider the bill at the earliest possible time consistent with the business of the senate.

Mr. Butler, of South Carolina, submitted a concurrent resolution, providing for a commission consisting of two senators, three members of the house and three officers of the regular army who have served not less than ten years, to whom shall be referred the whole subject of reform and reorganization of the army; the commission to assemble as soon as practicable and report to the next session of congress through the president of the United States. It also appropriates $2,000 to defray the expenses of the commission. Referred to the committee on military affairs.

THE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The session to-day was consumed in manner similar to yesterday and the previous day. The republicans refrained from voting on seconding the demand for the previous question on the Florida resolution, leaving the house without a quorum. Several proposals by the republican side were declined by the democrats, and the resolution was postponed until Saturday, and the house proceeded to attend to other business.

Mr. Stephens attempted to get the ear of the house for a few moments for the purpose of submitting a proposition to vote down the previous question, and allow every amendment which a member might desire to offer, but his voice was drowned by cries of "regular order" from the democratic side.

The republicans stated that there was no objection on their side to Mr. Stephens' proposition. Finally the democrats, finding it would be impossible to obtain a quorum to-day, yielded to a motion to adjourn, which was opposed by the republicans. It was nevertheless carried. Yeas, 141; nays, 116 This showed an increase in the democratic strength, as they cast all the affirmative votes and one negative.

THE SENATE POSTAL COMMITTEE to-day decided to report as amendments to the annual post route bill several measures heretofore agreed upon as separate bills, providing for a new classification of mail matter; the registration of new papers admitted to pound rates of postage, and requesting the compensation for railway mail transportation on a basis of both car space and speed of train. The committee also to-day authorized Messrs. Maxey and Conover to offer the Brazilian and Pacific mail steamship propositions as amendments to the post route bill when it comes before the senate if they consider such a course desirable.

of the democrats of the house decided to adhere to the caucus determination till their resolution shall pass, and meanwhile no other business will be transacted. The committee hope to have a quorum of democrats by Saturday.

Prof. Henry's funeral attracted thousands to the New York Avenue Presbyterian church who could not gain admittance, the church being filled with dignitaries.

The sub-committee of the judiciary committee of the house composed of Messrs. Hartridge, Culbertson and Stenger, to whom was referred the claim of the French bondholders of the El Paso railroad to its franchise have reported unanimously that the title vests in the Texas Pacific road. The report was argued this morning in full committee and no doubt expressed satisfaction of its adoption.

From the Country.

BALTIMORE, May 16.—Mrs. Koen, of Dayton, O, who, with others arrived to take passage on the General Werder for Bremen to-day, was found dead in her room. She suffocated from gas, which she blew out. Three thousand dollars were found on her person.

A Commuted Criminal.

LONDON, May 16.—The Times Paris dispatch states that Gartia, a communist, who was convicted of taking part in the assassination of two generals has had his sentence commuted to hard labor for life.

SCHOUVALOFF'S SECRET.

All the Papers Bewildered—Efforts to Look Behind the Curtain.

ITALY ASKING FOR WAR ALLOWANCES.

LONDON, May 16.—A Rome dispatch to the Times says that the minister of finance with the minister of war has presented a bill to the chamber asking a supplementary vote of 10,000,000 livres for war estimates.

LONDON, May 16.—The Standard says the torpedo committee are engaged on Hoogly river to determine at what points it is advisable to place torpedoes for the protection of Diamond harbor and Calcutta in case of emergency.

UNEASY.

In the absence of authoritative information regarding Count Schouvaloff's mission or its result, public opinion in St. Petersburg varies.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 16.—Telegrams state that disquietude is caused there by the silence in regard to Count Schouvaloff's journey.

FREQUENT INTERVIEWS.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 16.—A correspondent of the Times reports that Count Schouvaloff has frequent interviews with those directing foreign affairs. He will leave towards the end of the week, and will probably arrive in London Tuesday.

RUSSIAN ACTIVITY.

LONDON, May 16.—A special to the Standard from St. Petersburg says the Russian papers are full of news about the volunteer fleet, and subscriptions for fitting it out are coming in from all parts of Russia. It is true that the sums raised seem very small for the purposes, but they are double the amounts contributed from the same sources to the czarina committee for the relief of the sick and wounded during the war.

AGAIN THREATENING.

LONDON, May 16.—A special dispatch from Berlin this afternoon to the Pall Mall Gazette says: Disquieting accounts have been received here from St. Petersburg. The prospect is again threatening, and it seems that the Pan Slavist party are once more gaining the ascendency between England and Russia. It is assumed that Count Shouvaloff will leave St. Petersburg at the end of the week to return to London, after making a short stay in Berlin. Notwithstanding the secrecy observed the various points whereby a real understanding may be attained form the subject of discussion.

In well informed political circles, though in the first place, the necessity of securing the great object of the war, independence of the Christians, is insisted upon. There is on the other hand no disposition to inscribe "noli me tangere" on the map of Bulgaria, which was only set up as a provisional draft. At the same time other compensations than those fixed upon in lieu of war indemnity are not regarded as excluded from discussion. While it is declared that there can be absolutely no serious idea of the retrocession of Kars, the same is not true of Batoum. The advantage to Russia of the acquisition of Batoum is said to have its reverse side inasmuch as millions must be expended in the construction of convenient lines of communication and proper fortification before the possession of the place could be rendered of any great importance. In the peaceful current of the general indications, favorable significance is attached to the fact that the right of sale in the streets have been withdrawn from the Galos, which had lately adopted a warlike tone, while the Bourse Gazette and New Times, which recently observed an attitude favorable to peace, had that privilege restored to them. Prince Gortschakoff is slightly better from his last attack of gout. The czar will not in any case visit the Paris exposition, but some of the grand dukes will, if circumstances permit.

ON THE RUSSIAN COAST.

LONDON, May 16—Russian preparations to attack the British has commenced to attract attention. The Times in a leading editorial on the general situation, refers to it, and says: The United States navy may be depended on to do all in their power to observe the treaty of Washington, but even if the Russians succeed in equipping their little fleet it will hardly do much mischief, and is more likely to fall victim to our cruisers than to inflict damage on our merchent men. We might have some trouble at first, but a short time will suffice clear the seas and passage of our vessels from one port to another as safe as now.

THE HUNGARIAN DIET.

PESTH, May 16.—The lower house of the Hungarian diet adopted the bill providing for the credit of 600,000 florins. Only the extreme left opposed the bill. In the course of the debate, M. Tizsa, the premier, stated that the government regarded the efforts of the Balkan Christians as a European question, which they intended to settle in concert with Europe.

BUCHAREST, May 16.—Prince Charles, who has been visiting the army of the north, has gone to Servia. The movement of the Russian troops and provision trains toward the Danube continue.

Judge Hunt.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Wm. H. Hunt was qualified as judge of the court of claims to-day.

SURMISING THE RESULT.

LONDON, May 16.—Notwithing the silence of the St. Petersburg semi-official press, there is little doubt that the following dispatch to the Reuter telegraph company represents the present views of the imperial court and chancery: St. Petersburg, May 16.—Complete secrecy is maintained in regard to Count Schouvaloff's reports to the emperor and conference at the foreign office. Strict silence upon the subject also appears to have been imposed upon the semi-official organs in order that, previous to Count Schouvaloff's return to London, no unnecessary discusion may arise between the Russian and foreign press to disturb or injuriously affect the evident conciliatory intentions apparent in the intercourse.

The Southern Presbyterians.

KNOXVILLE, May 16.—The general assembly south of the Presbyterian church of the United States convened here this morning. The opening sermon was delivered by Rev C A Stillwell, D D, the retiring moderator. Rev Thos E Peck, D D, of the Roanoke presbytery, Virginia, was elected moderator, and Rev Joseph H Martin, of Atlanta presbytery, temporary clerk. Over 130 delegates are present, making probably the largest assembly of this body ever convened.

Another Grab.

NEW YORK, May 16—It is reported that the Rothschilds have taken the remaining fifteen million dollars of the four and a half per cent. syndicate contract. The four and a half per cent. bonds have advanced to 102½ with accrued interest.

A Royal Visit.

LONDON, May 16.—The queen will shortly visit Woolwich and inspect the troops there. This will be the first time her majesty has been down in twenty-two years.

Special Correspondence to The Constitution.

Your farmin' colum is a great comfort to me. It makes me feel sorter independent of my nabors. They are mity clever and kind, but when I ax 'em about this thing and that thing, I can see a suppressed smile a playin' around as tho' it was amusin' how little I knowd. You see this is my fust year at the bisness, and all my late friends who kindly predicted that me and my folks would perish to death by the fust day of June, has been watchin' me afur off, and they are somewhat disappointed. We did run alarmingly short of vittels; that's a fact, and I recken they heard of it, for we havent been afflicted with company to any extent. We've had a hard time of it this spring, shore. Sweet prospects, sweet birds and sweet flowers was all around us, but we couldent eat 'em. Sorter like that feller who writ about water—water everywhere, but not a drop to drink.

But I like farmin', nevertheless. Its an honest, quiet life, and it does me so much good to work and git all over in a swet of perspiration. I enjoy my umble food and my repose, and get up every mornin' renewed and rejuvenated like an eagle in his flight, or words to that effect. I know I shall like it more and more, for we have already passed over the Rubycon and are beginin' to reap the rewards of industry. Spring chickens have got ripe and the hens keep bloomin' on. Over 200 now respond to my old 'oman's call every mornin' as she totes around the breadtray a singin' teheeky, teheeky, teheeky. I tell you she watches those birds close for she knows the value of 'em. She was raised a Methodist, she was, and many a time has watched through the crack of the door sadly, and seen the preachers helped to the last gizzard in the dish. There was 54 chickens, 7 ducks, 5 goslins, 12 turkeys and 7 pigs, hatched out last week, and Daisy had a calf and Molly a colt besides. This looks like bisnes, don't it? This is what I call successful farmin' —multiplying and replenishing according to scripter. Then we have a plenty of peas and potatoes and other garden yerbs, which help a poor man out, and by the 4th of July will have what bread and biskit and blackberry pies and pass a regular declaration of independence.

Speakin' of potatoes—let me tell you how my nabors watched me. Me and the boys was a workin' away in a patch of rich mellow new ground down in the bottom, and a nabor called and says he, "what you calculatin' on plantin' here?" "Potatoes," says I. "Gwine to plant all this in potatoes?" says he. "Yes," says I, "and more too. I would plant ten acres if I had the seed." Pretty soon it was norated all over the settlement that I was runnin' nothin' but potatoes on my farm, and it got to Rome that I had planted 17 barrels and was still at it when the feller left. And so my late friends shook their heads knowingly and remarked, "I told you so. He don't know that horses and hogs can't live without corn."

Well, I hav' planted about ten bushels in the fresh, loose soil on the creek and nobody ever saw finer ones or more of 'em to the quantity. I dident plant 'em in the dark of the moon, either. Let the lunatics put that in their pipes and smoke it. One of my nabors wont lay the worm of a fence unless the moon is just right, and another says he noticed for 40 years that its mity apt to rain sometime within 3 or 4 days before or after the moon quarters. "Jesso," says I, "Jesso."

But they do git the joak on me sometimes, and I sorter blame you with it, Mr. Editur, for you see I'm farmin' accordin' to your schedule, and you don't always make things exactly luminous. Farinstance, you said that cotton seed was an excellent fertilizer. Well I had 'em and as they was a clean, nice thing to handle, I put 'em under most everything in my garding. I was arunnin inyun sets heavy, and one mornin went out to peruse 'em and I saw the straight track of a big mole under every row. He had jest histed 'em all up about three inches. He haden't eat nary one, and thinks I to myself, he's just goin around a smelling of 'em. Next mornin all my sets was a settin about 6 inches up with air right on top of the thickest stand of cotton you ever did see. Now, if you had told us about spilin of 'em as my nabors call it before we used 'em, it would have been more luminous Howsowever, I knifed 'em down and set the inyuns back again, and nobody ain't got a finer crop.

Speakin of cotton seed reminds me to tell you and your readers that the finest cabbages I ever saw was at one of my nabors last fall, and he said he always planted 'em over a double handful of spilt'd cotton seed, and he haden't failed to make a good crop in ten years. If any of your readers don't know how to spile 'em, let 'em ax Harris. He wants somebody to ax him something hard. But he don't know any more about it than I did, and he cant find it, for it aint in no dictionary that he's got.

But farewell for this time.

The Blackburn Rioters.

LONDON, May 16—A Manchester correspondent of the Times says a strong impression prevails that the recent outrages attributed to the striking cotton operatives were not perpetrated by them, but by the lower populace of Blackburn and neighborhood, who are notorious for ruffianism, and have taken advantage of the present ferment for their own purposes. At Preston, Accrington and other towns, strict watch is kept against an influx of this class from Blackburn.

An Adventurer's Call.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—A prominent Irishman, connected with the Fenian organization in this city, pronounces Captain Harris, who is about to issue a call for two hundred volunteers to go to Russia, an adventurer, who has no authority to act for the organization.

The North American announces that the iron steamer State of California, about to be launched, has been purchased by Russia. The first payment of $100,000 in gold was paid.

Political Probabilities.

MONTGOMERY, May 16.—The politician who foreshadowed Reynold's confirmation as first auditor, gives positive assurance that Jas. T. Rapier, colored ex-congressman, will be nominated vice Booth, as collector of the second Alabama district. Rapier was the first colored man who publicly endorsed the president's southern policy.

The Cheshire Handicap.

LONDON, May 16.—The race for the great Cheshire handicap stakes for three-year olds and upwards at Chester to-day, was won by Mr. F. Swindell's ch. h. Woodlands, who was second in the race for the Chester's trades cup yesterday.

One of Robeson's Ships.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 16.—The naval board survey has condemned United States steamer Omaha as not being worth repairing; her bottom being badly decayed.

The Fort Pillow Massacre.

The Philadelphia Times on Gen. Forrest.

It was after this, I think, that he captured Fort Pillow, and as so much has been said about "his ruthless butchery" of the garrison there, I will give my recollection of his own statement to me about it. I said to him one day: "I hear you shot some of your own men at Fort Pillow; how was that? "Well," he said, "I'll tell you how that was. The boys had promised their wives and sweethearts to bring them a calico frock the first chance they got at a yankee store, and while we were fighting our way up to the breastworks of Fort Pillow, I noticed the firing ceased all at once on the left of my line, and rode down that way to see what was the matter, and there was the sutler's store just broken open, and as I rode up one of the boys came out with his arms full of dry goods. I was so mad I dropped him with my pistol; right behind him came another, and he was a captain, and he, too, was loaded with plunder, and I shot him, too. They all went on with the fighting after that." "Well," I said, "how about your shooting the negroes after they had surrendered?" "Oh!" said he, "there has been a great deal of exaggeration and misrepresentation about that, and I'll tell you how that was. When we got into the fort the white flag was shown at once, and the negroes ran out down to the river; and although the flag was flying, they kept on turning back and shooting at my men, who consequently continued to fire into them crowded on the brink of the river, and they killed a good many of them in spite of my efforts and those of their officers to stop them. But there was no deliberate intention nor effort to massacre the garrison as has been so generally reported by the northern papers."

An Aeronaut Seriously Injured.

ROCHESTER, May 15.—A frightful aeronautic accident occurred at Victor, near this place, last Friday. As Mr. Lavelle grasped the bar to his trapeze balloon and gave the order to cut loose the strap, one guy missed and the balloon shot upward, only to be held in in dangerous captivity. Finally the guy broke, but the balloon still careened and tossed terribly, and as it shot upward hurled the aeronaut against the roof of a neighboring building with such force as to break his left arm, crush his thigh, and inflict serious internal injuries. Notwithstanding this terrible accident the aeronaut clung to the trapeze, drew himself up, threw one leg over the bar, and patiently awaited the cooling of the air in the balloon. The machine descended in about half an hour, and the unfortunate man was properly cared for. It is feared that his internal injuries may prove fatal.

Murdered Minister.

LONDON, May 16—Advices from Japan say Minister Okubo was murdered in the street by five assassins while on his way to the cabinet council. All of the assassins were arrested.

The Constitution.

ATLANTA A.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 17, 1878

WE hope Colonel Hewitt is satisfied with the turn the affairs have taken.

THE bumble-bee that now buzzes in the republican bonnet is a Florida bug.

COL. WILLIAM ARP pays his respects to the readers of THE CONSTITUTION.

THERE is a republican hitch in the Florida investigation. Wherefore this whenceness?

ABSENT democratic congressmen ought to leave their photographs with the speaker.

MR. DANA, of the New York Sun, ought to have more judgment than to fight with his eyes shut.

IT is better that Dennis should be absent from Washington than that democratic members should fail to answer to their names just now.

AN absent democratic congressman is not entirely useless. He is generally available as giving the republicans two votes on the floor.

WE would regret to learn that any Georgia congressman swelled the list of absentees during the past day or two.

IT may be well to state, for the benefit of the radical organs, that Dennis's absence from Washington is only temporary.

JAY GOULD was one of the few men in New Yook who was glad when John Morrisey died. Morrisey compelled Gould to make restitution.

MURAT HALSTEAD says General McCormick has more than he can do to take care of one hundred and forty United States commissioners.

AND so it is the red-hot republicans who are in favor of suppressing an investigation? Ah, well! a sick dog never wants a physician to examine his sores.

I. COCKERILL, of the Baltimore Gazette, announces that John Sherman has begun to contribute to the conscience fund. John must be an exceedingly wealthy man.

TO ALL intents and purposes the democratic congressman who has been absent from his seat during the past three or four days, or who is absent now, is a republican ally, with all that the name implies.

A DAY or two ago it appeared that a majority of the republicans in the house were in favor of an investigation. But the patriots have flinched. Will the New York Sun please make a note of this?

HAVE any of the Georgia representatives been absent from the house during the past three or four days? We ask for information, because we want to give such absentees the full benefit of their position.

BOSS SHEPHERD writes to Sunset Cox and boasts of his "association with the greatest living American." Why is the boss writing to Cox, and who is the "greatest living American?" We shall probably get the particulars through the next mail.

WE publish elsewhere the first of a series of letters from Bill Arp, the well-known Georgia humorist, who will henceforth contribute regularly to THE CONSTITUTION. The letter we publish to-day is written in the easy, rollicking style which has made Major Smith famous among the humorous writers of America.

LATER in the season, Mr. Dana, of the New York Sun, will learn with regret that it is the republicons and not the southern "rebels" and northern "dough-faces" who desire to prevent an investigation of the Florida frauds. We trust that Ballard Smith will make it his business to keep the old man informed in regard to these matters of minor importance.

IT will be seen by the notice published elsewhere, that a meeting of the democratic executive committee of the fifth district, will be held in Griffin on the first day of June next. This call is made by Captain Newman, the chairman, not only for the purpose of preparing for the nomination of a candidate for congress, but for the purpose of arranging all the details of a thorough organization of the party in the district. A list of the members of the committee is appended to the call, and it is to be hoped that all will attend the meeting, in order that the deliberations of the committee may be marked by entire unanimity.

THE New York Times, alluding to the recent attempt to assassinate the emperor of Germany, says "it would be a little singular if one party should prove to be accessory to an attempt at assassination for the purpose of involving another party in disrepute." It would not be at all singular. The German politicians, if the surmise of the Times is correct, are merely borrowing the tactics of the carpet-bag politicians who so long ruled the south. For years, when the hue and cry of ku klux outrages threatened to die out at the north it was the custom of the carpet-baggers to send out and have a number of unfortunate negroes massacreed. The Times will find that there are few phases of corruption and knavery, either ancient or modern, that the accommodating carpet-bagger has not compassed.

A CORRECTION.

In an editorial paragraph the other day we stated that the name of Colonel Speer was presented before the Gainesville convention last year, and the colonel commenting upon the statement and correcting it, rather broadly intimates that it was made for the purpose of injuring him. In this he is as badly mistaken as it seems we were. The fact that the Speer delegation from Athens was in the convention and participated in its deliberations confused our recollection on this point. Colonel Speer's name was not before the convention, nor was it presented by his friends. It is a source of deep grief to us that the colonel should so wofully misunderstand our position toward him as to even affect to believe that we would mistake a fact for the purpose of injuring him. On the contrary, we wish the colonel well—except as an independent candidate.

POUR PARLERS.

According to the books, ancient and modern, the term pour parler, which has been so frequently used in our foreign dispatches of late, means conversations and negotiations between parties in order to make an agreement. They are preferatory even to the more serious negotiations, and though they may result in a treaty, they form no part thereof. When it was discovered that the difficulties in the way of the assembling of the proposed congress, from which so much was expected, were practically insurmountable, the diplomats left off negotiations to that end, and dropped back upon the more convenient and less frigidly formal pour parler. Usually diplomatic negotiations are conducted upon the principle of repression and suppression. The atmosphere must be dry and the thermometer down to 38 degrees. Sometimes, in order that they may be perfectly calm and collected, it is usual for the statesmen who are to take part in the business to bandage their legs in ice cream freezers; but when it is announced that there is to be a pour parler, Biz. jumps up and slaps Diz. on the back, and Andy shakes hands with Gorts., and they all go in to have a regular spree. This is our understanding of a pour parler. It is intended to prevent war at small cost and allow the diplomats to have a little fun. It is a pow-wow in which the stem of the pipe of peace is always sticking out, near the handle of a stone jug.

PENNSYLVANIA POLITICS.

The easy nomination of Col. Hoyt in the republican convention of Pennsylvania shows that the Camerons are still all powerful within their party. It also shows that the worst elements of it are still on top. Mr. Hoyt lives in the coal-mining county of Luzerne, and his nomination was chiefly induced by the belief that he can control the Mollie Maguires through a political bargain which was struck in 1875. This bargain is supposed to involve the pardon of the notorious Jack Kehoe. The present governor, Hartranft, is in the triumphant ring. Mr. Grow and the anti-Cameronites are crushed, and the ring that has long dominated the state, filling it with rapacity and corruption, are as powerful within the party as at any period in their history.

But can they carry the state? The junior Cameron's political fortunes depend upon Mr. Hoyt's success. If the democrats at Pittsburgh, on Wednesday next, put in the field a strong ticket, it is the opinion of the best judges that Mr. Hoyt will be defeated. Said the Pittsburgh Telegraph just before the late convention:

> Mr Hoyt is not the choice of any considerable portion of the masses of the republican party for the gubernatorial nomination He will be weak, very weak, as a candidate before the people. There are many reasons for this which it is not necessary to mention now. He is the merest tool of a few corporations. He lacks energy, and is a man of certain habits which render him unfit for the allurements of public life. It is hardly necessary that we should enlarge on this. It will be too successful ly done by our adversaries in the Scotch-Irish region of western Pennsylvania, if Mr. Hoyt heads our ticket.

Wisdom at Pittsburgh is all that is wanted; for it seems to be understood that ex-Senator Buckalew, who defeated old Simon in 1863, is to be pitted against the younger and less skillful Cameron. The next senate of the state, owing to the large number of senators holding over, will probably be controlled by that party, but the democrats are confident of carrying the house by a large majority. The acts of the ring, the odium of the Cameron dynasty, and the tyrany of the railroad corporations will greatly promote such a result.

What effect the national-greenback-labor ticket will have is a matter of no little doubt. That party polled last fall 53,000 votes. Its candidate for governor, Mr. Mason, is a reputable citizen in an agricultural district. The strength of the party comes from the Mollie Maguires that Mr. Hoyt is supposed to control, and from the republican greenbackers of the agricultural counties. The latter are undoubtedly the more numerous, and there is as little doubt that they come almost wholly from the republican party. It is generally conceded that the nationals will poll a larger vote than they did last year; but we see in that fact no danger to the democratic party of the state. In short, if the Pittsburgh canvention nominates an unexceptionable ticket, we see at this distance no reason why the democrats should not carry the state in November, and soon after bury the whole Cameron family.

INTERIOR WATER WAYS.

The east wants a ship canal to the gulf; and of course she goes to congress at once. Two propositions are pending for that purpose, the basis of each being that there should be such a canal so that vessels of war and bodies of men may be thrown from one point to another without encountering the vicissitudes of the sea or the interference of a hostile fleet. The configuration of our Atlantic coast is favorable to such a project. A short canal would connect Cape Cod with Long Island Sound; the Delaware and Raritan canal, forty three miles in length, unites New York with Philadelphia on the Delaware; the Chesapeake and Delaware canal, fourteen miles long, unites the Delaware river with the Chesapeake bay. Proceeding down the bay to Norfolk the canal route is resumed by two canals on different routes to Albemarle sound, one, the Dismal Swamp canal, twenty-nine miles long, and with seven locks, and the other the Albemarle and Chesapeake canal, fourteen miles, with one lock. All the canals along the coast, with the exception of the Dismal Swamp canal, have locks of uniform length—viz, 220 feet—while those of the Dismal Swamp canal are ninety-four feet. It is evident, therefore, that any steamer or other vessel less than 220 feet long, 24 feet beam and drawing not exceeding seven feet of water, can go now by the inland route from New York to Pamlico sound.

The plan as presented to congress seems to be strongly tinctured with North Carolina interests; but there are vague intimations in favor of an occasional easy cut, or as easy, dredging so as to extend the proposed water way to Florida and even to New Orleans without once entering the open sea. The Jersey and North Carolina capes are, above all things, to be avoided; the coastwise trade should be promoted; the country need such a defence in time of war—these and other considerations are urged in advocacy of an interior channel of communication. It is urged, that light draught monitors and torpedo boats would thus be safe from all the perils of the sea, and that commerce would be immensely benefitted. The memorialists demand in conclusion an appropriation. Nothing is said about the old flag, but that seems to be understood.

We have no objection to the scheme; but it seems to us that, as the open sea is available, it would be best to first build the short canal that is needed to connect the Tennessee river with the waters that flow to the south Atlantic coast, thus bringing the products of the Mississippi valley to that coast and making an interior coastwise line more desirable. In other words, it would not be wise to expend much on an interior line along the coast until we have brought to the coast enough business to justify it. The open sea will answer at present; but if the Tennessee were practically extended to the coast, a safe inland route would speedily become a public necessity. The eastern memorialists have begun at the wrong end.

METHODIST FRATERNITY.

Yesterday was the most interesting and significant day that will occur in the session of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church south. The conference received Rev. C. D Foss, D. D., and the Hon. Will. Cumback, the fraternal messengers of the Methodist Episcopal church, north. The reception of these gentlemen was cordial and their presence was the occasion of unfeigned good feeling. They expressed in elegant addresses the feeling of their own hearts and of the great Christian denomination they represented. These speeches appear elsewhere, and they will be read with interest throughout the entire union. They are significant utterances, pregnant with a great meaning, which is daily becoming plainer.

It is now useless to discuss the reasons which led to the sad disruption of the greatest denomination in America in 1844. The attention and the interest of the two branches of this church and of the whole country are now turned to the future rather than to the past, and passion has long since been supplanted by fraternal love and sectional sympathy. It is but justice to the Methodists of the north to state that they made the first friendly advances after the war was over and the causes of the separation were forever removed. Their overtures then pointed to a reunion of the churches, and the bishops of the church, south, gave a calm and dignified reply, in which they said that before union could be accomplished fraternity must be established, or in their own strong words, "heart divisions must be cured before corporate divisions can be healed." This reply mapped out the subsequent policy of both churches on the subject. Fraternal messages were exchanged at the general conferences of each until at length each appointed five plenipotentiary commissioners, who met at Cape May in the summer of 1876, and there by singular unanimity removed every obstacle to formal fraternity. Since that time fraternity has not been formal only. It has been and now is earnest and sincere and hearty. These two great bodies of Methodism now really have one heart, and work together in harmony and love.

The events of yesterday will tend to increase this sympathy. There is now no reason why there may not be a strong hope that fraternity will ere long blossom into perfect love and bear the fruit of a real union. When these churches recognize each other in the spirit of perfect Christian love, there is nothing to prevent their union in temporal organization. That such a union would bring to both new strength and new hope cannot be doubted. That such a union would be a great step toward the full restoration of peace and love throughout the country is just as sure. One of these denominations numbers over a million and a half of members. The other numbers over three-quarters of a million. Perfect union of sentiment among them would at once place a large percentage of our population beyond the reach of sectional discord and would introduce an element of harmony into our government whose power would be absolutely incalculable. Events look toward this consummation. Every year the cords of love and sympathy between these great churches are drawn closer, and they must eventually bind them into perfect union. This consummation is devoutly wished, not only by thousands of Methodists, but by thousands of others who differ in religious creed but agree in love for our common country.

GEORGIA IN CONGRESS.

The Record of May 9 contains the speech of Senator Gordon on the repeal of the resumption act. He was frequently interrupted by "applause in the galleries." Every part of the speech is emphatically good, making quotation difficult, while it is too long for republication in our crowded columns. Our readers must await its appearance in pamphlet form.

On Wednesday of last week General Gordon obtained unanimous consent to introduce a bill for the relief of Robert Erwin. In the house Mr. Smith was made a member of the committee on the census. Mr. Bell obtained unanimous consent to introduce a bill for the relief of Martin R. Archer, postmaster at Gainesville.

The Record for last Friday contains the speeches of Messrs. Harris and Smith on the tariff bill. They were delivered on the previous day, and their publication was postponed one day in accordance with custom, that they might be revised. Both speeches are full of facts and figures in favor of tariff reform. Mr. Harris discusses many collateral questions, all, however, relating to a revision of the present unjust tariff. Mr. Smith demands that the protective feature in our tariff shall be terminated, and that free trade shall be instituted as soon as practicable. These two speeches should be printed for general distribution. In the senate Mr. Hill spoke briefly, but earnestly in favor of an immediate repeal of the bankrupt act. On the amendment for immediate repeal, Mr. Hill voted "ay," and General Gordon was absent. The final vote was taken on the September amendment, when Gen. Gordon voted "ay," and Mr. Hill "no." In the house a vote was taken on the Heater case. It arose in Virginia, an executor making a claim on account of stores and supplies taken and used by the United States army. In some respects it was a test case. The bill was passed by a large vote. Messrs. Bell, Candler, Felton and Harris voted against tabling the bill; Messrs. Blount, Cook, Harris, Smith and Stephens did not vote. Mr. Stephens was paired with Mr. Harris of Massachusetts.

Mr. Smith introduced, last Monday, a bill for the relief of E. McDonald, of Georgia. When the first vote was taken on Mr. Potter's resolution for the investigation of the electoral frauds, all the Georgia members were present except Mr. Stephens, and he was paired with Mr. Harris, of Massachusetts. Mr. Stephens presented some business from the coinage committee just before the vote was taken, showing that his pairing with Mr. Harris was not on account of his own inability to attend the sessions of the house. In the senate General Gordon procured the passage of a resolution directing the committee on postoffices and post-roads to inquire into the expediency of establishing a post-route from Dublin, Laurens county, to Red Bluff, Montgomery county.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

ATLANTA, GA., May 16, 1878.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: What are the "Nihilists" of which we are reading now? What connection have they with the European troubles? J. T. M.

They are Russian communists. They believe in a grand division of all property, and the abolition of all human government. They embarrass and oppose the Russian government and are thus supposed to influence the European question.

In North Carolina.

MARIETTA, GA., May 14, 1878.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: Is there any state in the union where burglary is a hanging crime?

Yes; North Carolina. A man is now under sentence of death there for this crime.

IN GENERAL.

—The weather continues overcoatish.

—Aimee has $2,000,000, half cash, half diamonds.

—An exchange says pork is lower in Iowa than for eighteen years before.

—Let Keely use Minnesota flour for his power and his motor will be all right.

—Communism and loaferism may be different things, but they occupy the same pew.

—Edison's wonderful inventions, the telephone and phonograph, have been accorded the place of honor in the Paris exposition.

—The Earl of Dufferin has much of the exquisite chinaware which once adorned the bourdoir of ex-Empress Eugenie.

—March 1st the St. Gothard tunnel had been pierced for an aggregate length of 33,012 feet, or six miles and a half.

—The evil that men do lives after them. The fact that John Morrissey went to congress is now brought against him.

—You have no idea how awfully guilty I am. I almost believe that I stuffed the Florida ballot boxes.—Mrs. Tilton.

—Don't put off until to-morrow that which you can do to-day, unless you are going into the poetry line.—Keokuk Constitution.

—Mrs. Tom-Ri-Jon, of New York, is so well up in the hyphen business as to excite the envy of leading journals in St. Louis and Louisville.

—Don't spank your children with the boot-jack. It is too hard to hold, and is apt to make bunions on your thumb.—Burlington Hawkeye.

—Why Mrs. Don Cameron laughs: She got more presents that the Italian minister's bride. The latter only got $40,000, and Mrs. C. scooped in $100,000 worth.

—"I have only one confidential friend and she bears my name."—Frank Moulton. And it is very contemptible in Mr. Moulton to twit her of it.—Quincy Whig.

—Bishop McCoskrey has retained Alfred Russell, as counsel in case of a trial by the bishops. Public sentiment appears to be crystallizing in the bishop's favor.

—A Broadway florist has a rare specimen of the "umbrella pine," a large tree that does not produce seeds until it is a hundred years old. It was brought from Japan, where the trees are much used for ornamenting temples.

—Mrs. Ruth A. Pomeroy, mother of the boy fiend Jesse Pomeroy, lately applied for a divorce from her husband whom she abandoned some years ago, on the ground of drunkenness and failure to support her.

—Several years ago a young man in New Orleans put a sum of money in a savings bank, and forgot all about it until recently, when, after reckoning up the interest, it was found that—the bank had failed.

—France proposes spending $150,000,000 on her army, and $45,000,000 on her navy in 1879. The low pay of French soldiers is partly compensated by the fact that they can buy their tobacco from the government on very low terms, and travel everywhere through the country at half price.

—Miss Mary Anderson, the actress, in a conversation at Rochester, a few days ago, denied the report that Henry Watterson had aided her in her plan of going on the stage, but said that she did so at the advice of Charlotte Cushman, who early became convinced of the young girl's powers.

—Pius IX. was a good billiard player; but a newspaper paragraph represents his successor as at first considerably taken aback by a request from Cardinal Franchi for permission to establish a billiard table in his own apartments. Leo XIII., however, yielded at once on hearing that his secretary of state had been ordered by his physicians to play at billiards one hour a day.

—A movement is on foot in Chicago to do away entirely with the present system of using gas to illuminate the streets and substitute in its stead a dozen electric lights at different elevated points, with which, it is claimed, the entire town could be made almost as light as day, and at much less expense than the present costly gaslight system. A similar proposition is under consideration by the Pittsburg, Pa., councils for lightening that city.

—The Rev. W. G. Haskell has preached his farewell sermon in the Episcopal church in Medford, Mass. The parish requested him to resign. He says that his downfall is the result of an unfortunate combination of circumstances. One evening he took a large dose of Medford rum to cure a cold, and went to bed; but he had scarcely fallen asleep when a surprise party of young folks took possession of his house. He had to get up and entertain them. The rum and the sudden awakening dazed him, and he created the impression that he was grossly intoxicated, whereas he is sure that he was "only just a little bewildered."

—Lieut. Richard L. Hoxie, of the army, and Miss Vinnie Ream, the sculptress, will be married at Washington on the 28th. Miss Vinnie's trousseau is now in process of construction at the parlors of Mme. Washington, and its principal feature, the bridal robe, is a marvel of artistic taste and skill. It is a princesse dress, of the richest white satin and tulle, with thick plaitings filling in the front of the skirt and corsage, pelisse of rich tulle festooned with lillies of the valley and other choice flowers, corsage high with half sleeves. An exquisite reception dress of rose satin with garniture of point lace, made en traine, will be very becoming to Miss Ream's beauty; and a promenade toilet of black velvet and grenadine, exquisitely becoming, forms a part of the trousseau. The wedding will be solemnized in the Church of the Ascension, Bishop Pinckney officiating.

—Mahlon Chance, the Ohio statesman, who was retained as consul at Nassau for eight years in the hope that yellow fever would carry him off, and who was finally removed by Hayes to make a place for one of his wife's relatives, is about to become a member of the celebrated Sherman family. He is going to marry the widow Smith, of Mansfield. She is a sister of John and Tecumseh and Charles, who was a judge of the United States court, but who is now largely in private life. After his marriage Mr. Chance will be appointed secretary of the territory of Utah. The importance of becoming a member of the Sherman family in this country can hardly be overestimated.

—General Benet, the chief of the ordnance bureau, has recommended that the sabre and the bayonet be discontinued. Generals Sherman and Sheridan both endorse the recommendation. The records show that out of 253,142 wounds received on the federal side during the four years' fighting, only 906 were given by sabre, sword or bayonet, and out of these only 52 produced death. The medical statistics of Germany in the late war with France are quite convincing. Out of 65,160 killed and wounded, only 212 were wounded by sabre or bayonet, and only 6 killed. In the cavalry service the killed and wounded amounted to 2 236, and only 138 of these were touched by sabre or bayonet. So much for the "cold steel" we used to hear so much about.

THE CONDEMNED WOMAN.

The Case of Mrs. Southern Discussed in New York Society.

We extract the following from the last "Fashionable News" letter of Jenny June:

The case of Mrs. Southern, the Georgia woman, who, excited by jealousy, stabbed a woman to death, who had for years tried to step between herself and the man who was her lover and afterwards her husband, has excited a great deal of interest among women here at the north, and many and heated have been the discussions as to the amount of criminality involved in the deed.

At a recent ladies' lunch party where the subject was discussed, it was a little curious to find how much sympathy was felt for the murderess, and how largely she was exonerated in the minds of nearly every married woman present. The argument was simply this: that the devotion of the husband since the act of killing the other woman shows clearly that he deeply loved his wife, and that it was only his gallantry, his vanity, his amour propre that were enlisted on the side of her unscrupulous rival, who evidently pursued every advantage regardless of honor, decency and loyalty to her sex, or consideration for the feelings of a wife and prospective mother.

For this kind of wickedness in women there is no punishment. The law does not recognize it, and the unfortunate wife is utterly at the mercy of a man who is impelled by his vanity to parade his influence over other women. That this wretched woman was driven to desperation there is no doubt, and so common is the cause which impelled her to the fearful act, it is surprising terrible scenes are not more frequently enacted on this account.

Edison's Telephone.

New York Correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial.

The city telegraph system is to undergo a change which is a revolution. Edison's telephone is to be substituted. A system of telephonic wires is to be erected centering at the city hall and diverging to the suburbs. A manager at the centre will connect and disconnect these wires according to call. For instance, No. 424, who owns or hires a telephone, calls for No. 171, who has a telephone; the manager hooks these two wires together, and the parties enjoy a secret confab without any assistance, and with no danger of being overheard by any third parties. The insulation is complete. And as every one who has a telephone will have a directory of all others who have telephones, the increased convenience will be very great. Those who have acquired no right to a telephone will either have to use a public telephone or trust to the slow messenger delivery of dispatches at present prevailing. I may add here that the Western Union company will add to its 7,000 offices at least half as many more during the next year, the extra offices being small villages over which the telegraph wires now run. As these are too unremunerative to pay the wages of an operator, the new communication will be by telephone; a mouthpiece will hang down from the wire and be deposited in the postoffice or drug store, and every man who wishes to send a message will talk it into the mouthpiece himself. This novel experiment will soon be tried on a large scale, and Dr. Green, the new president of the Western Union, has implicit confidence in its practicability.

The Pennsylvania Nationals.

Philadelphia Inquirer, rep.

The nationals polled considerably over 50,000 votes last November in the state, without any real organization; now that they have an organization which is said to be compact and which the late convention demonstrated. Its leaners are not tyros even in politics; they are old experienced hands at the business and know precisely what they have to do. If a year ago they polled 50,000 votes, their declaration that they will poll in the fall 200,000 is not to be lightly considered. In fact, from indications developed throughout the interior, there is little reason to doubt that they will prove a most formidable opponent to either of their competitors, and run a dangerously close race with them for the office.

The Next Republican Platform.

National Republican, rep

An anti-southern claims plank in the next republican platform is now assured. Fealty to the constitutional amendments, and effective pledges that they shall be carried out to the full scope and intent of their meaning, thereby insuring free citizenship in the south as well as in the north, will as certainly form the basis of another plank. But the threatening aggressions of the commune, in its varied forms, must receive attention. Many sections of the north, will be overwhelmed with a consideration of this question, forced by the actual, living presence of riotous agrarianism. The republican party will not hesitate to grapple with the disturbing element. It should be throttled in the cradle.

Communism Impossible.

Nashville Banner.

Communism in America will never be anything more substantial than a bloated phantom. Here all industrious people become property-holders, and as such are opposed to an equal division with the lazy and worthless. Moreover, the rich men of this generation are represented by the poor of the next. There are no laws of primogeniture—no patents of nobility—no aristocracy of idleness and non-production. The petroleumites who flee from justice at home and find a safe refuge in America, talk against the stomach of their own common sense when they gabble about their communism here.

Col. Brown, the Probable Man.

Cartersville Express.

Several names are being suggested as the nominee for congress, the most prominent, so far as we have heard, being Col. J. R. Brown, of Cherokee county. The others we have heard mentioned are Judge McCutchen, of Whitfield, A. R. Wright, of Floyd, N. G. Lester, of Cobb, and Gen. Wofford, of Bartow. Whether the latter named gentlemen would accept or not we have no means of knowing. It is said upon the streets that Col. Brown desires the nomination, and is thought it will be tendered to him.

Let the Truth Come.

Baltimore Sun, ind.

But it is strictly within the power of the house to investigate. Mr. Potter's preamble and resolution present very forcibly the grounds upon which an investigation is called for. It is well, perhaps, that the political conscience shall be quickened and aroused by a presentation of facts which the country cannot afford to forget. For a warning for all time to come, it is better that the truth should be known.

Only a Farce.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat, rep.

The whole proceeding is a farce, engineered in the interests of Mr. Tilden and other democrats, who hope to manufacture capital for future campaigns. If there is to be an investigation it should be thorough. But a thorough exposure of their own rascality is just what the democrats don't want. The business interests of the country, it seems, must be sacrificed to their desire for campaign capital. The circus will go on again to-day.

Incredulous.

New York World.

If our esteemed cotemporary, the Sun, is to be believed, the country will ere long behold the amazing sight of an army of northern republicans who voted for Hayes marching under the command of Montgomery Blair to put Tilden in the white house, in spite of the furious resistance in defense of Hayes of any of the southern conspirators who voted for Tilden. This is eminently one of the cases, we should say, in which seeing will be believing.

Planets of No Account.

Detroit Free Press.

It was a bad piece of management to have the transit of Mercury last week. The New York papers were so busily engaged in giving accounts of the transit (by coach) from that city to Philadelphia that they were scarcely able to notice so trifling an affair as a planetary movement. It is to hoped the eclipse in July will be managed judiciously, and postponed if it conflicts with anything of local interest to the Gothamites.

A Grand Inquest.

Washington Post, dem.

The movement inaugurated by Mr. Potter yesterday is not a movement in the interest of any man. It is a grand inquest in the name and for the honor of the people of the United States, who have been defrauded of their birthright—the right to elect their own chief magistrate. Woe to that democrat who, from petty spite or captiousness, attempts to arrest or delay its consummation.

The Tramp Organized.

Memphis Avalanche.

Communism is in this country about as greatly to be feared as the bosh about imperialism which deluged the press a few years ago. The sole reliance of the commune is the tramp—he who clamors for work while refusing work—and the law can take care of the obstreperous tramp.

Dangerous to His Friends.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Ampt, of Cincinnati, has not unfolded his tale, and until he does nobody can tell upon what political crag the live thunder will light.—Atlanta Constitution.

His friends don't want him to unfold it, for fear they will find a dart on the end of it.

Another National Danger.

Chicago Times.

Stanley Matthews, it is said, will decline to run for the senate again. If this great and good man should forsake politics how still the country would be.

The Frontier Excitement.

Chicago Times.

Nothing more stupidly vicious and causeless than an invasion of Canada by Irishmen of the United States, can be conceived.

A Hard Question.

New York World.

If our esteemed cotemporary, the Sun, really thinks the union is in danger from the inveterate "rebels" of the south, how can it recommend the reduction of the army to 10,000 men?

—Every effect must have a cause; so Boils, Pimples, etc., are the result of poor blood. Purify the blood by using Dr. Bull's Blood Mixture and banish such eruptions as those named. 243

"Roses bloom, then fade and die."

JOHNSON—Little Carrie, daughter of Mr. J. B. and Mrs. Mary Johnson, has been taken up to be with angels. The darling was called away so suddenly it seems hard as yet to realize the great loss; but she is only gone before to the shining shore. She died 15th May in Augusta, Ga. The sweet remains were buried yesterday from the Hunter Street Church of Christ. The pastor, Dr. A. G. Thomas, preached a most beautiful and consoling sermon, pointing from the shadows of life to the realities of heaven. Let the parents take heart, for in Christ they may meet the dear one again.

Temperance Mass Meeting

PEACE, GOOD WILL, PROSPERITY, HAPPINESS.

UNDER the auspices of the "General Conference," a Temperance Mass Meeting will be held in the FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH, at 8 o'clock, FRIDAY EVENING, the 17th instant

The object is to further the cause of temperance, now enlisting the earnest sympathies and support of true christians, patriots and philanthropists, throughout the length and breadth of the land

The ruinous habit of drinking intoxicating liquors, has, indeed, become a great national evil, a social curse; and the time is at hand when the public mind and heart must be aroused to a lively sense of the dangers that threaten to destroy the peace, security, prosperity and happiness of the people.

Short addresses will be delivered by distinguished members of the Conference, and temperance orators. A real good time may be expected; "a feast of reason and a flow of soul," to revive and animate the good and true.

This is a call of love to the work of humanity Let there be a glorious meeting! Let music lend its cheer; and let the presence of beauty grace and adorn the occasion, and its smile light up the scene

Cordial invitation to all. 287 may16 2t

ROWLAND SPRINGS HYGIENIC INSTITUTE.
Open for Invalid and Hygienic Boarders.
The only Institute South superintended by a regularly qualified Hygienic Physician. It is not a summer resort for the gay and fashionable world—but a place where the sick may, at any and all times of the year, depend upon quiet, rest and home-like surroundings. Neither is it (as erroneously applied and often understood by Hygienic) a One Bath establishment proposing to cure all diseases by inducing excessive action of one organ—the Skin, but a place where all real remedial appliances are judiciously employed as aids in restoring all the vital organs to perform normal functions. All enervating and debilitating processes as well as medical drug poisons are positively excluded in the treatment of the sick.
Patients afflicted with Acute diseases or suffering from Old Standing Chronic Complaints, of every description, may rely upon SCIENTIFIC TREATMENT and SPEEDY RESTORATION. Hundreds of invalids, after being drugged and dosed almost to death—and given up as incurable by the drugopathic professions—have been speedily and completely restored to health.
Home Prescriptions. Many persons unable to leave family or business, can, by a little knowledge [illegible] treatment, be restored to health at home [illegible] prescription and advice forwarded on receipt of full description of symptoms and duration of disease. Prescription fee $5 00. For circulars and further information address

THE
Tate Epsom Spring,
BY THOMAS TOMLINSON.

THIS watering place, well known as furnishing the best medicinal water in the United States, is now ready for the reception of visitors, and will be kept in the best style during the entire season. The curative and restorative results from even a short and limited use of this water have been so signally illustrated in the past, and experienced by such large numbers of persons residing in every section of the country, that it is deemed unnecessary to present any elaborate exposition or commendation of its singular and wonderful qualities. Personal experience is a more reliable and satisfactory test than any chemical analysis, and thus tried, it has been found without an equal. A correct analysis, however, will be furnished to those who desire it. Thousands have come to this Spring for relief, and but few have gone away without finding it.
No effort to please will be omitted, and every diligence will be used to promote the health, the comfort and pleasure of visitors.
The terms of the house will be made satisfactory.
Morristown, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad is the nearest railway station, and conveyances running to the Spring connect regularly with all trains.
For full and reliable information as to all matters of detail, address the proprietor, Tate Epsom Spring, East Tennessee, and prompt answers, accompanied by circular, will always be received.

Life Insurance.

L. T. THUSTIN, Secretary,
J. B. TEMPLE, President

Southern Mutual Life Insurance Co.
OF KENTUCKY.

THE management of this old and reliable Company is eminently conservative—keeping safety always in view, avoiding experiments and new-fangled plans, alike dangerous to a Company and disappointing to policy holders. They have complied fully with the law requiring a deposit, under the new Constitution of 1877, for the protection of its policy holders.
We invite correspondence and calls at our office, 64 Whitehall street, and we can satisfy our friends that a Mutual Company, managed like the one we represents has never been known to fail in this country or of Europe.

ROUNDABOUT IN GEORGIA.

—Dysentery is almost an epidemic in Buena Vista.

—The Hessian fly is on the growing wheat in Wilkes county.

—Mr. Sam Wynn of Washington has discovered gold on his place in Lincoln county.

—Messrs John Maddox and Henry Cranford have leased Clayton county convicts for 1878 at $20 per head.

—One of the little children at the orphan asylum of Augusta died on Tuesday.

—Fishing, seining and shooting the wheat birds are the latest amusements of the Talbotton people.

—The masonic temple and Shorter college, of Rome, are near completion.

—Rome Courier: These cold nights will help wheat, but are bad on fruit, causing it to fall off.

—An interesting meeting is being carried on in the Methodist church in Hartwell.

—Rev. R. Bigham, colored, late of Africa, will lecture on his six years stay to the negroes of Cartersville.

—Col. J. H. Estill has been elected president and F. M. Hull vice president of the Union society of Savannah.

—The Macon business men have come to a general understanding and will receive the Mexican dollar at 95 cents.

—Dr. Hare and Messrs. Crawford and Turpin, of Americus, came into their town on Monday with one hundred and ten speckled bream.

—The Americus Republican says Miss Willie, daughter of Col. W. A. and Mrs. Sarah L. Maxwell, took about two ounces of arsenic acid on Monday and died on Tuesday.

—At a meeting in Rome the following gentlemen were elected directors of the Georgia Southern railroad: R T Wilson, Wm H Fogg, Jas Wallace, Wm Allen Butler, Chas H Bosher, Daniel S Printup and Alfred L Tyler.

—Rev. J. O. A. Clarke, of Macon, will deliver the commencement sermon at Gordon institute. Mr. J. M. Pace, of Covington, will deliver the junior address on Tuesday, and Howard Van Epps, of Atlanta, will deliver the address on commencement day.

—Knoxville Chronicle: Our Atlanta excursions, the remainder of them, returned home yesterday evening and last night, highly delighted with their trip. We have no doubt the excursion could be successfully repeated each week while the conference remains in session at Atlanta.

—Washington Gazette: Speaking of hard times, our city and county treasuries do not impress us that way. At the time of last report the city treasury had about seven hundred dollars in its coffers, and now the county treasury has about $4,500 —At a picnic of Independent Star social club, colored, of Savannah, at Thunderbolt, on Monday, a difficulty occurred between Henry Garrett and William Curry in regard to dancing with a certain colored damsel. Garrett shot Curry in the abdomen, perhaps fatally.

—Barnesville Gazette: Mr. M. G. Howard has buried seven of his hogs within the last week. They were attacked with cholera. Last week a little daughter of Mr. Dock Cocker, who lives near Gogginsville, was burned very badly. Her mother had left her in charge of the smaller children and her dress accidentally caught on fire. She was badly burned and will probably die.

—Toccoa Herald: The Elberton Air-Line company are rapidly progressing with the work of getting cross-ties. The road is ready graded and only 50 miles, and there are near one hundred hands now getting cross-ties along the line. These hands average 15 ties each per day (narrow guage remember.) The iron is being rolled for the track, and about the 20th of June next we hope to report an engine in Toccoa for that road. Look out for the engine on the Elberton Air-Line.

—Macon Telegraph: There have been several dastardly attempts recently to burn houses in the second ward. On Tuesday morning three separate attempts were made. The residence of Geo. R. Wagnon, master machinist at the Macon and Brunswick railroad, and Mr. Booker's residence, were both fired from underneath, but fortunately the flames were extinguished. Another house in the same vicinity, was also set on fire. Kerosene was freely used in each case.

—Columbus Times: We regretted to see that, with all her enterprise, there is one thing that Atlanta seems incapable of doing, and that is, getting up a cotton factory. The factory recently erected remains idle, and no one can tell when its driving wheels will be put in motion. But Atlanta is great and thriving enough without cotton factories, and can well afford to leave this important industry to Columbus and Augusta, which more sensibly feel their need and therefore cherish them as one of their mainstays.

—Mr. Carlin, of Mason, Texas, is said to be the largest sheep raiser in the southwestern portion of the state. He has a herd of ten thousand, and his annual clip has just yielded him fifty thousand pounds.

—Knoxville Tribune: Our exchanges within the past few days report the wheat crop looking more favorable, and attribute the cause of the improved appearance as due to the recent rains, which have served to wash off the rust or preventing it from spreading on the blade.

—Knoxville Chronicle: The friends of Will H. Cooke, son of Colonel J. B. Cooke, of Chattanooga, and formerly a student in the East Tennessee university, will be glad to learn that he has been acquitted at Decatur, Texas, of the charge of murder, committed about a year ago.

—Last week Messrs. Allen and John Campbell, of Union county, Miss., poisoned themselves fatally by eating the tubers of the plant commonly called hemlock (conium maculata) under the impression that it was ginseng. They died in violent convulsions three hours after eating the roots.

No doubt other parties will assert, as they have done before, they had agents at those great sales, but John Ryan hopes none of his friends or customers will be induced to make any purchases before they ascertain his prices, by calling at his establishment and see for themselves, OR SEND FOR SAMPLES AND SEE HIS PRICES. John Ryan has this time exhausted his cash and had to draw some on his credit. The stock being immense, he is now very willing to sell his friends and customers at a very small profit to get a return of his money and thereby benefit himself and customers who so kindly patronized him the last quarter of century. He thinks this the best and largest purchase he has ever made, and in all probability it will be his last. The stock of

Important to Parents and Guardians

MOUNT DE CHANTAL
Academy of the Visitation
NEAR WHEELING, WEST VIRGINIA.
PARENTS in quest of a first class school for their daughters, will do well to investigate the claims of the celebrated Academy. For thoroughness in every department of female education, Mt. de Chantal ranks pre-eminently high. Great attention is given to perfect the pupils in writing and speaking French with fluency. For those sufficiently advanced, it is the language of their recreation hours The purity of accent and correctness of pronunciation acquired in this Institution have been a subject of surprise to thy native Parisian. The renown for the superiority in music is so wide spread as to have made the Academy almost a national one. One feature, in particular, that should recommend Mt. de Chantal to the sensible parent, is the influence exercised to form the pupils to views and habits of economy, and to render them really practical and useful women of society in after years. Simplicity in dress is enforced by rule.
These facts, united ty the exceedingly moderate rates of board and tuition ($200 per annum) will we trust, secure to this school as large and desirable a patronage in the future as it has enjoyed in the past.
For further particulars apply for a prospectus to the Directress of Mount de Chantal Academy of the Visitation, near Wheeling, West Virginia Refer to John H. Flynn, W. S Thomson and General W. S. Walker.

Fulton Superior Court.

HON. GEORGE HILLYER, JUDGE PRESIDING.

The superior court of Fulton county met yesterday morning at the usual hour. The following business was transacted during the day's session:

Edward S McCandless and W H Holcombe were appointed notary publics.

Case of Amy Hitchins vs A G Hitchins. Verdict rendered by the jury in favor of the plaintiff for $350.50.

J S Davis vs Atlanta cotton factory. Verdict by jury in favor of plaintiff for $284 13, principal, with interest and costs of suit.

At this point Judge Hillyer vacated the bench for Judge Clark.

H L Murphy vs A B Sharp. Ordered, that the case be entered as settled and plaintiff recover of defendant costs of suit.

H L Murphy vs M C Sharp. Ordered by the court, that the plaintiff recover of defendant —— dollars, cost of suit.

E L Jones vs J M Ball. Bill, etc. Also, E L Jones vs J M Ball. Assumpsit. Ordered that these cases be transferred to W S Thompson, master in chancery, with power to act.

Otto Gerrick vs Samuel H Jones, contractor, and J W Beckwith, trustee. Verdict for plaintiff for $325 principal in suit, together with interest on same and costs of suit.

James M Ball vs Henry R Powers. This case has been one of considerable interest. It has been on trial for the past three days, and was concluded yesterday by the jury returning a verdict in favor of the defendant. It seems that a day or two previous to the failure of West, Edwards & Co., Mr. Henry R. Powers brought a bill of goods from W., E. & Co., and gave two acceptances of $5,000 each in payment of the same. The acceptances were given to James M Ball as a full settlement of his account with W., E. & Co. Messrs. Dodd & Francis, assignees of W., E. & Co., brought suit against H R Powers for the account which he owed W., E. & Co. The verdict of the jury was against the defendant in the suit, and the money was paid to the receivers. As soon as this was known to Mr. Ball he brought suit against Mr. Powers for the amount contained in the acceptances. The case was concluded yesterday as above stated in favor of the defendant, Mr. Powers. The plaintiff was represented by Messrs. McCay & Tripp and Col. N. J Hammond, and the defendant by Judge J. D. Cunningham and Mr. P. L. Mynatt.

Court adjourned to meet this morning at 8:30 o'clock.

A NOVEL CASE.

HABEAS CORPUS BEFORE ORDINARY PITTMAN.

A Runaway Father Seeks the Recovery of his Child From Its Deserted Mother.

Yesterday Judge Pittman heard and decided a case of habeas corpus involving the custody of a little girl, Lula Garvin, about six years of age. The petition was sued out by Robert K. Garvin, father of the child, against Mrs. Sarah E. Gourdin, mother, and Theodore S. Gourdin, step-father of the child. The evidence showed substantially the following state of facts: On the 18th day of June, 1870, the petitioner and the said Sarah E were married in Dalton, Georgia, she being about fifteen years of age. They lived together in Atlanta until about the first day of December, 1873, during which time they had born unto them the little girl Lula. On or about the first day of December, 1873, the said Robert H. Garvin left his family and went to Montgomery, Alabama, where it is alleged that in January, 1874, he married Miss Emily Gammel. On the 12th day of September, 1876, wife No. 1 filed her suit for a divorce in Fulton superior court, which was granted and a decree entered after two concurrent verdicts in her favor on the 9th day of November, 1877. The custody of the child, by said decree, was awarded to Mrs. Sarah E. Garvin. There was no defense in the divorce case. On the 17th day of December, 1877, she was married to her present husband, Theodore S. Gourdin. During her first husband's absence, and up to the time of her intermarriage with husband No 2, she remained most of her time with her father-in-law, the father of Robert K Garvin, who cared for her and the child, and became much attached to the child, indeed so much so that he tried to retain custody of her, and some time since its mother sued out a writ of habeas corpus for possession of it, before Judge Clarke, against the grandfather, in which case it was awarded to the mother.

In the case before Judge Pittman, yesterday, the father claimed that the decree in the divorce case was a mere ex parte proceeding, and had no right in determining the case; also that under our statutes the father is entitled to the custody of the child during minority, unless voluntarily relinquished by contract or forfeited by abandonment or failure to provide necessaries for the child, which he claimed was not true in this case, as he had left his wife and child with his father during his absence, where they were well provided for; also that the legal existence of Sarah E Gourdin was merged in her husband. The respondents relied upon the decree in the divorce case, and proof of desertion and marriage of the father to another woman, and the statute which says, that "in all writs of habeas corpus sued out on account of the detention of a wife or child, the court, on hearing all the facts, may exercise its discretion as to whom the custody of such wife or child shall be given, and shall have power to give such custody of a child to a third party."

The case was ably argued by Judge W F Wright for the petitioner, and T P Westmoreland for the respondents, after which Judge Pittman issued the following order:

"After hearing evidence and argument in this case, it is ordered that the order of the petitioner be denied, and that the child Lula Garvin, remain in the custody of Sarah E Gourdin, the mother, and that the petioner pay the sum of —— dollars cost of these proceedings."

—Beaumont and Bay Stranger have not been matched up to last accounts, but may be at no distant day. Many of our citizens would like to see them start, best three in five, to wagons.

- Captain M. J. Doyle, it is said, feeds Faugh-a-Ballah on lump sugar and custard pies when he wishes him to show his speed. It would not hurt Irish Girl to diet her in the same way, if this fare will cause a horse to trot.

—If Mr. Jack Odom, of Columbus, Georgia, could be induced to bring Spider to Atlanta he could be matched with very little trouble. Spider has for many years held the blue ribbon, and has added new fame to his name by recent victories at Mobile.

—Commodore Eugene P. Speer, of the Oconee fleet now lying at anchor on the bosom of the Oconee, opposite Milledgeville, writes the following in the columns of the Old Capitol: "Through the courtesy of Capt M R Bell, we were enabled to see the 'boat race' without walking. We were at the terminus, and can only say that the side-wheel boat Emma came in ahead—how the other contestants bore themselves we are unable to say. Hundreds of our people witnessed the contest on the banks of old Oconee. The boats entered for the race were the Alice by Sam Walker; Betsy, by John Edwards; Mayflower, by Bazmore; Emma, by her own. Owing to some mistake the Mayflower did not participate. The start was fair. There was a tedious delay in starting, cause by one boat, as to the starting point. The public are assured this will not again occur."

—Joseph McMahon's stable arrived at Louisville by boat from New Orleans on the 5th. In the lot on the boat on their way to Washington are Risk, Dallgasian, Egypt and Burgoo.

—The promising young trotting filly Allie Barcom, the property of Mr. Allen Bashford, Paris, Ky., died recently at the training stables of Messrs. Macey Brothers, Versailles Ky. Her owner valued her at $5,000.

—SAN FRANCISCO, May 12—Mollie McCarthy left Sacramento by express to-day in Budd Doble's private car, en route to Louisville.

—Controller, the California horse who trotted 20 miles in 58 minutes 27 seconds has been matched to trot 21 miles within the hour for a big stake.

—Himyar seems, from his Nashville performance, to have everything at his mercy. He can now pick his events and win them. He is a great favorite for the Kentucky Derby.

—Mr Swigert was very lucky with his stable at Nashville. On the first day he captured the Young America stakes, No. 1, with Toledo; on the third day the Cumberland stakes with Mexico, and on the fourth day the Young America stakes, No. 2, with La Favorita.

—Eighty-three horses have been entered for Belmont. All the classes have filled with the exception of the double team and steeplechase. For the three-quarter mile dash and mile and repeat, Juno, King Bee and Gale have entered.

—Mr B C Guerin, of Morristown, N J. has sold to Mr Vanderbilt Allen, of New York, his black team Gypsy Bill and Kittie Clay. The team is fast, very reliable and can trot in 2:30.

—The change of dates for the closing of entries for the Belmont park spring trotting meeting having caused some misunderstanding, two other entries have been received in addition to those that have appeared in the Record; Grace, for the 2:27 and 2:30 classes, and Carrie B, for the 2:37 and 2:40 classes.

—Mr Gooding is handling a handsome bay gelding, named Hardware Boy, nine years old, 15½ hands high, which was recently purchased by Mr Charles Holnes out of a hardward wagon. He is said to be surprisingly fast, having trotted a full mile, without a day's training, in 2:36¼.

—In relation to a recent challenge "to trot Powers three races against Voltaire," Mr Pick says: "Voltaire has beaten Powers every time they came together, and I am unable to see any new honor that can come to him in giving Powers another drubbing. When Powers puts himself on an equality with the stallion, it will be time enough to make a match to decide the supremacy."

—Mr. Clark, the president of the Louisville jockey club, is authority for the statement that the parties to the match between Ten Broeck and Mollie McCarthy have $10,000 on deposit in the bank of the Falls City. The match is play or pay, and it is certain that the horses will meet. Ten Broeck is all right.

—At the annual sale of yearlings which transpired at Belle Meade, April 29, twenty five colts and fillies were sold, aggregating $6 440, the average being $256 80. The result are not satisfactory, considering the steady growth of the turf, which necessarily increases the value of race-horses. In 1876 at Belle Meade, seventeen yearlings brought $7,860, an average of $463; and in 1877, twenty-two brought $11,455, an average of $520.

—The trial involving the ownership of the trotting stallion Blue Bull, which has been carried through half a dozen courts, at a total cost of about $9 000 was brought to an end recently in the Rush circuit court, Indiana, by Judge Downey, who decided the case in favor of James Wilson, of Rushville. The horse will, therefore, retain the name of Wilson's Blue Bull.

—Two exhibition races took place yesterday at Suffolk park, the first being a running race, half mile dash, between the ch. s. King Bee and b. g. Fish House, in which the latter won quite cleverly in 52 seconds. The second race was a trot, best three in five to harness, between the ch. g. Chance, driven by John Turner, and bay gelding Helmbold, handled by John H Phillips. Helmbold won three straight heats. Best time—2:44.

—The dispute between John Wood, of Knoxville, Pa., and Thomas J Berry, of Tioga, Pa. (the owners of the rival stallions, Wood's Hambletonian and Warwick's Boy) has been adjusted by the respective owners, making four races, to take place on the Elmira driving park, June 26th and 27th, between the gets of their horses of different classes; each stake or purse $400. The necessary documents have been executed and one-half the total amount deposited in the hands of Secretary Clark as forfeit.

—The first meeting at Saratoga begins July 20, and continues on the 23d, 25th, 27th, 30th and August 1 and 3. It is the purpose of the managers to make Monday, July 29 an extra day, and every day between the two meetings will be devoted to racing events, which will not be on the regular programme. The second meeting begins August 10, and continues on the 13th, 15th, 17th, 20th, 22d and 25th, and at the close of this meeting there will be two or three extra days' sport. The amount of money to be given, including extra days, will fall very little short of $100,000.

—A jockey club will be organized in Richmond, Va., June 18th.

The betting books of J R Watts & Co show that the latest odds are as follows:

Kentucky derby—6 to 1, Milan; 7 to 2, Himyar; 7 to 1, Leveler; 10 to 1, Burgundy. Full, Axiom, Checkmate, Earl of Beaconsfield, Charlie Bush, Solicitor, Glenmore, Sallie M, LeRoi, Ben Hadley, b c by Enquirer.

A GAIN OF OVER $22,000.

What the Personal Property Tax Law has Done for the City.

It will be remembered that some months ago there was a very bitter fight over the enactment of what was known as

"THE PERSONAL PROPERTY LAW."

Councilman Jim English stood foremost in pressing this measure, which was simply a plan for securing a more accurate and fuller return of the personal property of the city. He was stoutly opposed, but with the capable aid of Mayor Angier, Councilman Maddox, and one or two others finally pushed it through.

THEN THE PROPHETS OF EVIL

arose and declared that the plan would not work and that no increase of the taxable returns need be hoped for. It was even held that the citizens would not stand the visit of the tax assessor, and that physical resistance would be offered to these "spies of the city."

The result has disproved all these assertions. Three capable, courteous gentleman were elected assessors, and went to work with a will. They met no sort of resistance from the public sentiment or from individuals. They were in most cases kindly received and furnished all the information they asked for.

THE FINANCIAL RESULT

has been quite as much as hoped for. It was held by some of the advocates of the bill that the increased revenue to the city from this new tax ordinance, would amount to $75,000 per annum. It was not believed, however, that this result could be achieved in the first year. It was, of course, impossible that the law should work perfectly smoothly and efficiently the first year it was put in force.

The estimate made by Mr. English was that the amount of revenue would be increased the first year and would increase steadily year after year.

ABOUT $40,000 TO $50,000,

We are pleased to be able to chronicle the fact that the result fully sustains the prediction of Capt. English.

On the 1st of May the increased revenue from personal property tax alone was over $22,000. The estimate of Capt. English, based on a careful survey of the books, is that the amount will be still further increased by from $15,000 to $20,000. This amount will bring it up to the estimate he made, and will be sufficient to carry the city through the year nicely and without cramping any of the departments. The council will be enabled to retire about $50,000 of the floating debt. It is hoped that which will prove to be of enormous benefit to the city.

This of course depends upon the assumption that the increase in the personal property yet to be returned will be as large as is expected. In any event, however, enough increase has been secured to save the city from embarrassments, and sustain its several departments. It is hardly too much to say that this new personal property law has

SAVED THE CITY FROM BANKRUPTCY.

The amount of the real estate budget shows a most gratifying result. It will be remembered that for several years now there has been a steady and alarming decrease each year. The amount dwindled several millions

The decrease is not only checked with this year's estimates, but an upward turn is effected. There is an increase of nearly half of a million dollars, or something over $300,000. Of this, we believe, about $200 000 comes from the 4th and 5th wards, or the Peachtree street side of the railroad, and the remaining $100,000 from the White hall street side.

We may look now for a steady and constant increase every year, for the future. The increase for next year must be considerable. There are now over one hundred new dwelling houses going up in the city, and there is a prospect of many more being started. We shall have a good building year.

THE FINANCIAL CONDITION of the city is excellent—better than it has been since the war. Our floating debt has been sharply reduced—it is carried at much lower rates of interest than ever before—and it is so arranged that none of it is over due. It falls due at the rate of $15,000 to $20 000 a day, and can be so easily met in this shape that it will be impossible to ever discredit the city. As Capt. English said on yesterday:

"The city of Atlanta can pay every dollar that she owes as it comes due and is called for."

OUR PREDICTON IS

that the council will have a clear, clean $50 000 more of revenue this year than it had last year. If by the first of July the finance committee does not find that this much additional has been secured, we will make up the difference out of our private pocket

May Queens.

To-night all who attend at DeGive's opera house will see an attractive entertainment and honor themselves in keeping in mind the memory of the dead heroes who quietly sleep in Oakland cemetery. Bear in mind today, the brilliant programme for to-night, and then, too, remember that the proceeds are to purchase head-boards for the soldiers' graves. We can believe that the entertainment, combined with the object, will fill the house.

Consternation

JOHN KEELY.

Grateful to an appreciative public for exceedingly liberal patronage bestowed upon him thus far this Spring, calls attention to the fact that he is able to offer stronger inducements now, to purchasers, than at any time previous.

The attention of the Reader is respectfully called to the following List of Goods and Prices, which will be found to be

As Truthful as it is Startling.

ROWLAND SPRINGS HYGIENIC INSTITUTE.
Open for Invalid and Hygienic Boarders.
The only Institute South superintended by a regularly qualified Hygienic Physician. It is not a summer resort for the gay and fashionable world—but a place where the sick may, at any and all times of the year, depend upon quiet, rest and home-like surroundings. Neither is it (as erroneously applied and often understood by Hygienic) a One Bath establishment proposing to cure all diseases by the external or excessive action of one organ—the Skin, but a place where all real remedial appliances are judiciously employed as aids in restoring all the vital organs to perform normal functions. All enervating and debilitating processes as well as medical drug poisons are positively excluded in the treatment of the sick.
Patients afflicted with Acute diseases or suffering from Old Standing Chronic Complaints, of every description, may rely upon SCIENTIFIC TREATMENT and SPEEDY RESTORATION. Hundreds of invalids, after being drugged and dosed almost to death—and given up as incurable by the drugopathic professions—have been speedily and completely restored to health.
Home Prescriptions. Many persons unable to leave family or business, can, by a little knowledge and treatment, be restored to health at home. Description and advice forwarded on reception of full description of symptoms and duration of disease. Prescription fee $5 00. For circulars and further information address

Tate Epsom Spring,
BY THOMAS TOMLINSON.

THIS watering place, well known as furnishing the best medicinal water in the United States, is now ready for the reception of visitors, and will be kept in the best style during the entire season. The curative and restorative results from even a short and limited use of this water have been so signally illustrated in the past, and experienced by such large numbers of persons residing in every section of the country, that it is deemed unnecessary to present any elaborate exposition or commendation of its singular and wonderful qualities. Personal experience is a more reliable and satisfactory test than any chemical analysis, and thus tried, it has been found without an equal. A correct analysis, however, will be furnished to those who desire it. Thousands have come to this Spring for relief, and but few have gone away without finding it.
No effort to please will be omitted, and every diligence will be used to promote the health, the comfort and pleasure of visitors.
The terms of the house will be made satisfactory.
